Still Time for Steel Peace, Says Union; Talks Stepped Up to Avert Copper Strike

Nation Is Facing Big Crisis

60,000 May Stop on Friday

(By The Associated Press)

Negotiations stepped up on four western fronts Wednesday as representatives of the "big four" copper producing companies sought to avoid threatened strikes that might cripple industry throughout the nation.

Separate contracts with the firms are being negotiated by local officers of the International Union of Mine, Mill & Smelter Workers (Ind.). The pacts expire at midnight Thursday.

The union, which has headquarters in Denver, says between 50,000 and 60,000 members are affected.

THOUGH separate strikes are strong possibilities, the union has asked members of its national wage policy committee to determine whether a nationwide strike of the non-ferrous metals industry should be called Friday. The strike would be contingent upon settlement of new wage contracts by midnight June 30.

Results of that poll have not been tabulated, said a spokesman for the union, which was expelled from the CIO in 1950 for alleged Communist domination.

Meanwhile, negotiations continued at Butte, Mont., Douglas, Ariz., Salt Lake City and San Francisco.

AT BUTTE, a member of the Federal Meditation Board said the Anaconda Copper Co. has extended by four days the deadline—originally set for 3:30 p. m. (MST) last Monday—for acceptance of its wage increase offer of 10 cents an hour. The new deadline is 3:30 p. m. Friday.

The offer is half that demanded by representatives of Mine-Mill Workers at Great Falls, Anaconda, East Helena and Butte. The locals already have once rejected the 10 cent an hour offer. Numbering about 8,500, they also seek benefits including a variation of the guaranteed annual wage.

Laidlaw Retires After 16 Years, Submits Report on City Schools

Educator With 44 Years of Service Commended for Accomplishments

(Text of full report is printed on page 21)

On the eve of his retirement Superintendent Arthur J. Laidlaw presented a final report of his 16-year "stewardship" yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the board of education.

Superintendent Laidlaw, who is completing 44 years of service in the field of education, described changes in the Kingston school system since he assumed the superintendency July 1, 1939.

"A VERY EXCELLENT report," President Robert Herzog commented when Mr. Laidlaw completed his presentation. "I'm sure we're all going to miss you in the next several years. You've done a marvelous job."

In his "valedictory" report Mr. Laidlaw descrbeid the general situation in the local school system when he transferred here from the superintendency of schools in the city of Ogdensburg and traced developments, both in the physical plant and educational philosophy.

HE FOUND the physical plant discouraging. "The only bright spot was the newly built MJM School and the small addition which was being built on the Manual Training Building." The system was also deficient in curriculm and equipment.

In 1942 the superintendent was requested by the board to make a comprehensive study of school building needs and to submit a report. In this report a long-range building program was presented which affected all elementary schools, the MJM School and the high school. A restudy was made in 1949, with substantially the same conclusions as those of the 1942 report, and the building program was begun.

NEW CONSTRUCTION included a vocational building, the George Washington School, Kate Walton Field House, with remodeling of Schools 5 and 8, new heating systems and improvements in several other schools, etc.

Mr. Laidlaw pointed out that the local schools had no kindergartens 16 years ago. Now each elementary school has one. School libraries have been organized in every school. Every school now has an excellent school lunch program. Many of the departments have been strengthened, including physical education and guidance, and the vocational department greatly expanded. He traced the growth of a visual education department, the expansion of the high school curriculum, increases in teacher salaries and school costs, etc. Sixteen years ago the city school budget was $592,150. This year it was $2,244,377, an increase of 279 per cent.

"AND NOW I wish to offer my valedictory," he concluded. "I want to thank the members of the teaching staff with whom I have had the privilege to work for their cooperation. I want to thank the members of the clerical staff in the board of education's office who have worked so faithfully with and for me. I want to express my appreciation and gratefulness to present and past members of the board of education for their cooperation and support. I ask

10th Ward Seeks Site For Plaque

No. 8 School Is Desired Locale

A request for permission to erect a "permanent memorial" to war veterans of the Tenth Ward on the premises of School 8 has been received by the Kingston Board of Education.

A letter signed by Alderman James K. Ryan and Supervisor James J. Carroll of the Tenth Ward was read to the board at its meeting yesterday afternoon.

THEY POINTED out that a meeting in the ward was being planned "regarding the possibility of creating a permanent memorial to residents of the ward who have seen military service for our country.

"The reason we are contacting you at this time is to inquire if the premises, or rather, a part of the premises of School 8 property might be made available for this purpose. Private property changes hands too rapidly for our purposes and many land owners are afraid that it might be detrimental to them or their heirs if they wished to dispose of the property at a future date."

The request was referred to the building committee for study and report.

SOME MEMBERS of the board indicated that it might be possible to install some type of memorial on the school building but questioned the advisability of placing a memorial on the play area.

The board also took cognizance of a letter from Mr. Ryan and Mr. Carroll in which it was pointed out that residents of the ward were watching the progress of work on School 8 and wondering if they would have the "privilege of sending their children there if they so desire, rather than to the George Washington School as at present.

"WE DO NOT think it will be necessary for us to remind many of you that we did not exactly bless the previous move, particularly in the case of the little tots. However, the parents have asked us to inquire as to what provisions, if any, have been made for them."

Mr. Ryan and Mr. Carroll, in a third communication to the board, asked if it would be possible to use some part of the premises of School 8 for registration and voting in District 1 of the Tenth Ward.

The board accepted the resignation of Frances J. Deichelmann "with sincere regret." It also accepted "with regret" the resignation of Doris Fogg as a school nurse-teacher.

His Outstanding Service Praised By Mayor Stang

"Your service on the board of education has been outstanding and your counsel will be missed," Mayor Frederick H. Stang said this week in a letter to Richard M. Kalish expressing regret that he would not be available for reappointment to the board.

"Let me say, quite simply but sincerely, Thank you for a job well done."

IN HIS LETTER to Mr. Kalish, released by the mayor today, Mr. Stang acknowledged receipt of a letter from Mr. Kalish stating that he would not be available for reappointment to the board due to "business pressures and other activities."

"I am deeply aware of the responsibilities that are yours at the present time. Your expanding business ventures, as well as your continued interest in civic affairs, is ample reason for your desire to be relieved of some of the extra-curricular

Charge of Unnecessary Stoppage Called False

Pittsburgh, June 29 (AP)—CIO United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald said today Clifford Hood, president of the U. S. Steel Corp., "has falsely charged the union is forcing an unnecessary strike on the nation."

McDonald said "there is still time to conclude a settlement."

Big steel began banking its big blast furnaces this morning in preparation for the threatened strike at midnight Thursday.

Hood said last night that a nationwide steel strike was threatened.

McDONALD, in a prepared statement, added:

"If Mr. Hood were participating in the negotiations instead of spending his time going over publicity releases in his headquarters, he would know that the steelworkers union is doing everything within its power to avert a nationwide steel strike.

"We call upon Mr. Hood and other leaders of the industry . . . to join us in the practical task of hammering out an agreement that will be just and fair to the industry and to the public.

McDonald said genuine collective bargaining "with the real people in authority" is the only way a settlement can be made.

MEANWHILE, a U. S. Steel spokesman said the firm expects to complete the huge furnace banking operation before the union's strike deadline.

Employes of other companies in the mammoth basic steel industry have been alerted to begin orderly shutdowns.

Banking of the giant blast furnaces is a gradual process, slowed to prevent damage in the cooling process.

MEANWHILE, the CIO United Steelworkers planned showdown talks with U. S. Steel Corp. and other big producers in the hope they will increase their offer to boost wages.

U. S. Steel, which employes 150,00 of the 600,000 USW dues payers in the industry, held firm to its original proposal to hike wages an average of slightly more than 10 cents an hour.

Basic steelworkers now are paid an average of $2.33 an hour.

While the industry prepared for a possible strike, government mediators in Washington kept a close watch on the situation.

Copter Crashes In Ocean Hunt, Crewman Missing

Tokyo, June 29 (AP)—A marine helicopter searching for two downed marine pilots drifting helplessly in the Pacific more than 72 hours crashed in the sea today and one of its crewmen is missing, the navy said.

As the vast armada of searching planes and ships lost contact with the feeble radio of the first two raft-borne pilots, the navy announced the helicopter crash.

THREE of its crew were rescued. Identity of the missing man was withheld.

On Tuesday night, a Marine Fury disappeared in the search and its Pilot Lt. Alan M. McAneny of Yonkers, N. Y., is missing also.

The first two downed marines, by now weakened by more than three days in tiny life rafts, had been out of radio contact since early Wednesday.

IN THE 20,000 square mile search, a bright June sun burned away the fog that repeatedly has closed in and prevented rescues after planes glimpsed the bobbing life rafts. But a freshening wind has kicked up a heavier, more dangerous sea.

The The three men rescued from the helicopter were not injured, the navy said. They were identified as 2nd Lt. Robert Eugene Suedes, son of Robert W. Suedes, Eathan, S. D.; Cpl. Kyle Wayne Follett, son of Harrison A. Follett, Fairview, Utah, and Cpl. James W. Huckinson, son of Emor J. Huskinson, Osage, Wyo.

MORE THAN 70 air force, navy and marine planes and nearly a dozen U. S. Navy, Japanese and Canadian ships were in the search for:

Second Lt. David Winton Bell, son of Charles H. Bell, president of the huge General Mills Corp. and,

Capt. H. P. Montague, Jr., of Jackson, Miss., son of a chain store executive.

They are drifting on individual rafts, possibly 30 miles apart.

Cashin Still in Judgeship Race

Ives May Give 3 Names Without Any Choice

Three candidates, including County Judge John M. Cashin, of this city, are still under consideration for a federal judgeship in the Southern District of New York, it was indicated today.

Political leaders appear unable to decide on a single choice for the appointment, and one source, said, if the delay continues, Senator Irving M. Ives, has indicated that he may turn the three names over to Attorney General Herbert Brownell, of New York, without indicating a preference.

OTHER candidates, recently listed, are John P. Donohoe, of Garrison, Putnam county judge, and Martin Rosenblum, of Middletown, a practicing lawyer in Orange county.

A recent Gannet News Service report said, the vacancy, resulting from the resignation of Presiding Judge John C. Knox, appears to be without a definite choice, to date.

Whoever is selected must be approved by the Justice Department, nominated by the White House, and confirmed by the U. S. Senate. The post is a lifetime job.

Cashin, the report said, is backed by Rep. Dean P. Taylor, of Troy, GOP national committeeman from New York, and Senator Arthur H. Wicks, of Kingston, former GOP State Senate majority leader.

Donohoe has the support of former Assembly ways and means chairman, D. Mallory Stephens, and the Putnam county GOP organization, and Rosenblum has been endorsed by the Orange County Organization with the concurrence of Rep. Katherine St. George, of Tuxedo Park, the Gannett report said.

REPORTS earlier this year said that Judge Cashin had the endorsement of all the Republican county organizations in the Third Judicial District.

PSC Shelves Interim Raise for Phone Rates

Albany, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—The Public Service Commission today shelved the New York Telephone Co.'s request for a temporary 34-million-dollar increase in rates pending court action on a petition for a permanent increase.

Benjamin F. Feinberg, commission chairman, noted in a statement that the PSC had applied to the Court of Appeals for permission to appeal a lower court decision that directed the commission to reopen hearings on a permanent rate boost of $68,850,000. The commission had denied the increase.

"THE COMMISSION will take no action on the company's interim rate request until the Court of Appeals has acted," Feinberg said.

The company asked the PSC June 15 for permission to raise monthly charges for most home phones by 30 cents and most business phones by 75 cents, effective Aug. 1, as a "stop-gap" measure.

The company's president, Keith S. McHugh, said these increases would be of a "stop-gap" nature to meet what he called an immediate and pressing need for additional earnings. He proposed that these "stop-gap" increases remain in effect until final court determination of the issue of permanent increases.

THE COMPANY applied last year for permanent boosts of $68,850,000 a year. It proposed charging 75 cents a month more for most home telephones and $2 more on business phones.

The PSC last August rejected

Chief Murphy will serve his last day with the department tomorrow, after more than 50 years of fire service in the city, both as a volunteer and member of the regular paid department.

Eligible to succeed him are Harold A. Sanford and James M. Brett, deputy chiefs. A deputy chief, a captain, and a fireman are to be named.

July 4 Holiday Death Toll Predicted as 380 in U.S.

A nationwide death toll of 380 is predicted by the National Safety Council for the July 4 holiday weekend, the Associated Press reported today.

The Memorial Day toll was over 350, and one of 13 traffic mishaps reported in the county then resulted in fatal injuries.

Edward Coffey, 42, of Springtown road, New Paltz, died yesterday at Kingston Hospital of injuries suffered when a motorcycle, on which he was riding, skidded and overturned near New Paltz.

The safety council's estimate covers the period from 6 p. m., Friday until midnight Monday, and takes into account only immediate deaths and not those occuring later from injuries suffered over the weekend.

More than 40 million cars will be on the move over the holiday, a factor that the council said will produce an added travel hazard. The council gave these safety suggestions:

Drive about 10 M.P.H. slower than normally to give time to react in an emergency.

Start your outing in plenty of time so there's no need to hurry.

Don't compete for the right-of-way.

Pass cars singly and be sure you have a clear margin of safety.

Slow down at sundown and avoid driving when sleepy or overtired.

RICHARD M. KALISH

His Outstanding Service Praised By Mayor Stang

"Your service on the board of education has been outstanding and your counsel will be missed," Mayor Frederick H. Stang said this week in a letter to Richard M. Kalish expressing regret that he would not be available for reappointment to the board.

"Let me say, quite simply but sincerely, Thank you for a job well done."

IN HIS LETTER to Mr. Kalish, released by the mayor today, Mr. Stang acknowledged receipt of a letter from Mr. Kalish stating that he would not be available for reappointment to the board due to "business pressures and other activities."

"I am deeply aware of the responsibilities that are yours at the present time. Your expanding business ventures, as well as your continued interest in civic affairs, is ample reason for your desire to be relieved of some of the extra-curricular

Charge of Unnecessary Stoppage Called False

Pittsburgh, June 29 (AP)—CIO United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald said today Clifford Hood, president of the U. S. Steel Corp., "has falsely charged the union is forcing an unnecessary strike on the nation."

McDonald said "there is still time to conclude a settlement."

Big steel began banking its big blast furnaces this morning in preparation for the threatened strike at midnight Thursday.

Hood said last night that a nationwide steel strike was threatened.

McDONALD, in a prepared statement, added:

"If Mr. Hood were participating in the negotiations instead of spending his time going over publicity releases in his headquarters, he would know that the steelworkers union is doing everything within its power to avert a nationwide steel strike.

"We call upon Mr. Hood and other leaders of the industry . . . to join us in the practical task of hammering out an agreement that will be just and fair to the industry and to the public.

McDonald said genuine collective bargaining "with the real people in authority" is the only way a settlement can be made.

MEANWHILE, a U. S. Steel spokesman said the firm expects to complete the huge furnace banking operation before the union's strike deadline.

Employes of other companies in the mammoth basic steel industry have been alerted to begin orderly shutdowns.

Banking of the giant blast furnaces is a gradual process, slowed to prevent damage in the cooling process.

MEANWHILE, the CIO United Steelworkers planned showdown talks with U. S. Steel Corp. and other big producers in the hope they will increase their offer to boost wages.

U. S. Steel, which employes 150,00 of the 600,000 USW dues payers in the industry, held firm to its original proposal to hike wages an average of slightly more than 10 cents an hour.

Basic steelworkers now are paid an average of $2.33 an hour.

While the industry prepared for a possible strike, government mediators in Washington kept a close watch on the situation.

Copter Crashes In Ocean Hunt, Crewman Missing

Tokyo, June 29 (AP)—A marine helicopter searching for two downed marine pilots drifting helplessly in the Pacific more than 72 hours crashed in the sea today and one of its crewmen is missing, the navy said.

As the vast armada of searching planes and ships lost contact with the feeble radio of the first two raft-borne pilots, the navy announced the helicopter crash.

THREE of its crew were rescued. Identity of the missing man was withheld.

On Tuesday night, a Marine Fury disappeared in the search and its Pilot Lt. Alan M. McAneny of Yonkers, N. Y., is missing also.

The first two downed marines, by now weakened by more than three days in tiny life rafts, had been out of radio contact since early Wednesday.

IN THE 20,000 square mile search, a bright June sun burned away the fog that repeatedly has closed in and prevented rescues after planes glimpsed the bobbing life rafts. But a freshening wind has kicked up a heavier, more dangerous sea.

The The three men rescued from the helicopter were not injured, the navy said. They were identified as 2nd Lt. Robert Eugene Suedes, son of Robert W. Suedes, Eathan, S. D.; Cpl. Kyle Wayne Follett, son of Harrison A. Follett, Fairview, Utah, and Cpl. James W. Huckinson, son of Emor J. Huskinson, Osage, Wyo.

MORE THAN 70 air force, navy and marine planes and nearly a dozen U. S. Navy, Japanese and Canadian ships were in the search for:

Second Lt. David Winton Bell, son of Charles H. Bell, president of the huge General Mills Corp. and,

Capt. H. P. Montague, Jr., of Jackson, Miss., son of a chain store executive.

They are drifting on individual rafts, possibly 30 miles apart.

Cashin Still in Judgeship Race

Ives May Give 3 Names Without Any Choice

Three candidates, including County Judge John M. Cashin, of this city, are still under consideration for a federal judgeship in the Southern District of New York, it was indicated today.

Political leaders appear unable to decide on a single choice for the appointment, and one source, said, if the delay continues, Senator Irving M. Ives, has indicated that he may turn the three names over to Attorney General Herbert Brownell, of New York, without indicating a preference.

OTHER candidates, recently listed, are John P. Donohoe, of Garrison, Putnam county judge, and Martin Rosenblum, of Middletown, a practicing lawyer in Orange county.

A recent Gannet News Service report said, the vacancy, resulting from the resignation of Presiding Judge John C. Knox, appears to be without a definite choice, to date.

Whoever is selected must be approved by the Justice Department, nominated by the White House, and confirmed by the U. S. Senate. The post is a lifetime job.

Cashin, the report said, is backed by Rep. Dean P. Taylor, of Troy, GOP national committeeman from New York, and Senator Arthur H. Wicks, of Kingston, former GOP State Senate majority leader.

Donohoe has the support of former Assembly ways and means chairman, D. Mallory Stephens, and the Putnam county GOP organization, and Rosenblum has been endorsed by the Orange County Organization with the concurrence of Rep. Katherine St. George, of Tuxedo Park, the Gannett report said.

REPORTS earlier this year said that Judge Cashin had the endorsement of all the Republican county organizations in the Third Judicial District.

Action to Await Court Ruling

PSC Shelves Interim Raise for Phone Rates

Albany, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—The Public Service Commission today shelved the New York Telephone Co.'s request for a temporary 34-million-dollar increase in rates pending court action on a petition for a permanent increase.

Benjamin F. Feinberg, commission chairman, noted in a statement that the PSC had applied to the Court of Appeals for permission to appeal a lower court decision that directed the commission to reopen hearings on a permanent rate boost of $68,850,000. The commission had denied the increase.

"THE COMMISSION will take no action on the company's interim rate request until the Court of Appeals has acted," Feinberg said.

The company asked the PSC June 15 for permission to raise monthly charges for most home phones by 30 cents and most business phones by 75 cents, effective Aug. 1, as a "stop-gap" measure.

The company's president, Keith S. McHugh, said these increases would be of a "stop-gap" nature to meet what he called an immediate and pressing need for additional earnings. He proposed that these "stop-gap" increases remain in effect until final court determination of the issue of permanent increases.

THE COMPANY applied last year for permanent boosts of $68,850,000 a year. It proposed charging 75 cents a month more for most home telephones and $2 more on business phones.

The PSC last August rejected

Action Postponed to Fill Fire Department Vacancies

Appointments to fill vacancies on the fire department were postponed by the Board of Fire Commissioners, at its regular meeting last night, until Thursday.

Charles Derrenbacher, president of the board, said today that all appointments, including a successor to Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, will be made at the meeting.

Chief Murphy will serve his last day with the department tomorrow, after more than 50 years of fire service in the city, both as a volunteer and member of the regular paid department.

Eligible to succeed him are Harold A. Sanford and James M. Brett, deputy chiefs. A deputy chief, a captain, and a fireman are to be named.

On the list for deputy chief are Howard Myer, 132 Emerson street and Julius E. Buchholtz, 80 Hunter street, and on that for captain are Robert W. Hardwick, 90 Tubby street; Joseph J. Disch, 345 Broadway, and Robert F. Schatzel, 46 Grand street.

Only the name of Hugh C. Greer, 22 Staples street, is on the recently established list for firemen, but an older list still exists with one eligible name, that of Robert Priest, 71 Elmendorf street.

The board's meeting starts at 8 p. m. tomorrow.

A nationwide death toll of 380 is predicted by the National Safety Council for the July 4 holiday weekend, the Associated Press reported today.

The Memorial Day toll was over 350, and one of 13 traffic mishaps reported in the county then resulted in fatal injuries.

Edward Coffey, 42, of Springtown road, New Paltz, died yesterday at Kingston Hospital of injuries suffered when a motorcycle, on which he was riding, skidded and overturned near New Paltz.

The safety council's estimate covers the period from 6 p. m., Friday until midnight Monday, and takes into account only immediate deaths and not those occuring later from injuries suffered over the weekend.

More than 40 million cars will be on the move over the holiday, a factor that the council said will produce an added travel hazard. The council gave these safety suggestions:

Drive about 10 M.P.H. slower than normally to give time to react in an emergency.

Start your outing in plenty of time so there's no need to hurry.

Don't compete for the right-of-way.

Pass cars singly and be sure you have a clear margin of safety.

Slow down at sundown and avoid driving when sleepy or overtired.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

It is a good thing that Kingston has some 100 miles of paved streets which absorbed the thousands of autos away from the recent firemen's convention parade, line of march and of course the influx of paraders and their friends and relatives. I do not think anyone went away hungry or thirsty as there seemed enough food, soda, milk and beer to go around. It will be a parade long remembered in the annals of history, a great change over the horse-drawn fire engines of years back. Also the innovation of ice-cold beer in cans was something new in street refreshments during the parade. Years back, there was only beer in glasses. Who knows at another quarter century's turn what folks will eat and drink during such a parade, perhaps cocoanut milk or celery tonic. Although we had a long cold spring and June all of a sudden on June 18 the parade day turned out to be real hot. On the shady side of Broadway, near the Kingston Recreation Center I saw registered 90 during the parade, folks could not believe it, but there it was. So I can imagine how hot it was in the sun.

The uniforms seem to be of lighter material then years back, although many of them are still of the classic wool style. The musicians were working up blisters on their hands playing in the hot sun on the hot metal instruments and that is before they reached the top of the Broadway hill. I notice a new style to the drums, especially in colors of iridescent hues of blues and greens. Most of the smaller communities now have splendid streamlined fire trucks, as folks are building in the outskirts and need the best fire protection for expensive homes, all showing the progress of the last 25 years.

It must have been very difficult to pick a winning team or teams for I liked them all, some for the colorful uniforms, some for the marching, others for the bands, and some for the drum majorettes. The girl in the gold sequin or gold coin, sort of mermaid fashion was outstanding when it came to a costume I thought. No doubt when the paraders were on level ground in front of the City Hall they gave their all in performance. They were walking up the Broadway hill when I saw them, yet some of the girl majorettes were doing tumbling tricks. That is difficult with the hill against you.

My father used to enjoy watching the teams of strong horses that pulled fire wagons, especially the team connected with the Cornell Hose Co. at 90 Abeel street. We had our store down at 46 Broadway, just at the head of Abeel street and when that team of horses used to come racing to a fire with the fire engine in back of it, that was excitement, believe me. Ask any old timer. We always felt as though the horses would run right into our store but they always made the proper turn, summer and winter. Great horses they all were. I noticed in this parade some of the fire companies brought along their splendid coach-dogs one of them wore a red fireman's hat. I saw men shake hands with him. He was some nice dog. Years ago one of the local firemen companies owned one, or perhaps he was a different breed. I think his name was Ginger. Anyway he would stand on the truck and guard the equipment and only members of the fire company whom he knew could go near it. He would let no one else touch anything or go near the truck. Perhaps some old timers remember the dog I am talking about.

No doubt many a youngster decided after that parade that he would be a fireman when he grew up, and perhaps some of them decided it would be worthwhile to learn to play a musical instrument, so they too could be in such a parade someday.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

It is a good thing that Kingston has some 100 miles of paved streets which absorbed the thousands of autos away from the recent firemen's convention parade, line of march and of course the influx of paraders and their friends and relatives. I do not think anyone went away hungry or thirsty as there seemed enough food, soda, milk and beer to go around. It will be a parade long remembered in the annals of history, a great change over the horse-drawn fire engines of years back. Also the innovation of ice-cold beer in cans was something new in street refreshments during the parade. Years back, there was only beer in glasses. Who knows at another quarter century's turn what folks will eat and drink during such a parade, perhaps cocoanut milk or celery tonic. Although we had a long cold spring and June all of a sudden on June 18 the parade day turned out to be real hot. On the shady side of Broadway, near the Kingston Recreation Center I saw registered 90 during the parade, folks could not believe it, but there it was. So I can imagine how hot it was in the sun.

The uniforms seem to be of lighter material then years back, although many of them are still of the classic wool style. The musicians were working up blisters on their hands playing in the hot sun on the hot metal instruments and that is before they reached the top of the Broadway hill. I notice a new style to the drums, especially in colors of iridescent hues of blues and greens. Most of the smaller communities now have splendid streamlined fire trucks, as folks are building in the outskirts and need the best fire protection for expensive homes, all showing the progress of the last 25 years.

It must have been very difficult to pick a winning team or teams for I liked them all, some for the colorful uniforms, some for the marching, others for the bands, and some for the drum majorettes. The girl in the gold sequin or gold coin, sort of mermaid fashion was outstanding when it came to a costume I thought. No doubt when the paraders were on level ground in front of the City Hall they gave their all in performance. They were walking up the Broadway hill when I saw them, yet some of the girl majorettes were doing tumbling tricks. That is difficult with the hill against you.

My father used to enjoy watching the teams of strong horses that pulled fire wagons, especially the team connected with the Cornell Hose Co. at 90 Abeel street. We had our store down at 46 Broadway, just at the head of Abeel street and when that team of horses used to come racing to a fire with the fire engine in back of it, that was excitement, believe me. Ask any old timer. We always felt as though the horses would run right into our store but they always made the proper turn, summer and winter. Great horses they all were. I noticed in this parade some of the fire companies brought along their splendid coach-dogs one of them wore a red fireman's hat. I saw men shake hands with him. He was some nice dog. Years ago one of the local firemen companies owned one, or perhaps he was a different breed. I think his name was Ginger. Anyway he would stand on the truck and guard the equipment and only members of the fire company whom he knew could go near it. He would let no one else touch anything or go near the truck. Perhaps some old timers remember the dog I am talking about.

No doubt many a youngster decided after that parade that he would be a fireman when he grew up, and perhaps some of them decided it would be worthwhile to learn to play a musical instrument, so they too could be in such a parade someday.

TRUE CHARACTER OF A CITY

At first impression many of America's cities appear quite similar. But closer study shows them to be tremendously varied, as rich in their diversity as the regions they reflect.

Most people have strong favorites among our cities (not counting their home towns). They may fasten on one place as having almost everything they like in a city. Or they may prefer one town for its scenic setting, another for its shops, another for its theatre and other entertainment, and so on.

These attachments are natural and inevitable. Much travel is for sheer enjoyment, obviously, and you cannot ask that people make a course of study out of it.

Yet it could mean much to them, and to their country, if more often they went about in search of understanding as well as enjoyment. As a matter of fact, the two are of course not mutually exclusive. Understanding is not a dull commodity, to be shunned if possible.

Cities deserve to be looked at whole. However satisfying it may be to reflect on such thoughts, it is not enough to say of, for example, San Francisco: "Those wonderful hills . . . those bridges . . . the restaurants . . . the cosmopolitan atmosphere."

All true, any viewer of that marvelously spectacular city would agree. But this is not the full measure of San Francisco, any more than a similar appraisal would be of any other city.

The true gauge of a city is: What kind of place is it to live in? For cities are places to live and work, and only secondarily places to visit.

Is it a city where daily living is for the most part fairly agreeable and healthy? Is a good share of the housing suitable, with light and space and some green in its setting?

Can people get back and forth to work with fair dispatch and without staggering inconvenience?

Are the neighborhood shops and service facilities reasonably accessible, so that shopping for all the daily necessities is a tolerable, even pleasant experience instead of a frenzied nightmare?

Are there lots of places for children to play? Are the cultural and entertainment "wonders" the city boasts of to visitors easily available to the homefolks?

These are simple, elemental questions. But only by getting the answers to them can you really determine the quality of life in a city.

A city is a place for all its citizens. It cannot be fully judged by those who travel only the hotel - restaurant - theatre - night club-museum circuit.

If it doesn't pass the simple tests of value to all its people, then its glamorous excitements can hardly compensate. The city then becomes something of a movie set, all fancy glitter in front but only crude skeleton framework behind.

The Marines are to have a special shrine in Philadelphia, where the corps was founded on Nov 10, 1775. The location will be the so-called New Hall, near Independence Hall, built in 1791 and now to be restored as a memorial museum to the Marines.

SAME OLD MOLOTOV

If there is any change in the policies and attitudes of the rulers of the Soviet Union it was not apparent in the speech delivered by V. M. Molotov at San Francisco.

As usual the Soviet Union was depicted in his speech as the rallying point for all who want peace and the Western powers were blamed for all the tension in the world. Molotov hauled out all the specific proposals for peace on Russian terms that he has made so many times before and which the free nations have always found unacceptable.

It may be that Molotov was trying out the first position the Soviet will take at Geneva—a position from which they may be willing to give some ground. There was little about his speech, however, that made any such conclusion predictable. It was the same old Molotov, peddling the same old line—just as loud and angry as ever.

NEW YORK POLITICS

The only reason that the small politics of New York State are important is that this State affects the national conventions and the nominations for President and Vice President. The Democrats are moving ahead under the leadership of Carmine DeSapio and Governor Averell Harriman. The Republicans are in a state of confusion because they cannot make up their minds whether Tom Dewey is still the Boss or has retired to the private practice of law.

This situation has become further confused by the fact that the Democrats won all the state offices but one, namely, the Attorney-General, to which Jacob Javits was elected because enough Democrats would not vote for Franklin R. Roosevelt, Jr.

By all the rules of the game, this would make Javits the Republican leader. But many, some say most, Republicans here do not regard Javits as their leader. Many even deny that he is a Republican but feel that he has chosen this party as a vehicle for election to public office. They believe that at heart he belongs to the Liberal Party, a Socialist organization.

Recently, Charles A. Buckley, Democratic leader of the Bronx and a great power in his party, before a large audience at the Waldorf-Astoria, cut off the Liberal Party, said that the Democrats could survive without their endorsements, but indicated that the Liberals would be welcomed in the Democratic Party. The effect was electric. The Liberal Party has been receiving a measure of patronage, sometimes too much from the Democrats. There would be no more of that.

The Republicans, under Javits, then proceeded to move to the Left, hopeful of capturing the support of the Socialist Liberals. There is a Republican in the State of New York, Oswald D. Heck, generally known as "Ozzie," who has long been in the State Legislature and is the speaker of the Assembly when the Republicans are in the majority. Ozzie's ambition is to be Governor of the State.

There is no question as to his ability. He is a competent man who has often helped Thomas E. Dewey over a tough spot. Heck's political difficulty is that while he is very popular in the northern part of the state and would get a large vote there, he is practically unknown in New York City, where, as things stand now, he would not even get the full Republican vote.

So Heck has formed an alliance with Javits, which means that Heck has moved to the Left where Javits has always been. The idea of the alliance is that Javits will run for United States Senator against Herbert Lehman and Heck will run for governor against Averell Harriman, if Harriman does not run for President and is not elected to that office. It is a wonderful scheme, beneficial to the Democrats.

Herbert Lehman is now 77 years old and will be 78 when he has to run for re-election. Despite many reasons why he should not be popular, the fact is that he is popular. If he runs in 1956, he will be elected if for no other reason than the sentimental one that the aged gentleman should be permitted to end his life in the United States Senate. While Lehman belongs to the A.D.A. group of Democrats, the association will not hurt him. The Liberal Party cannot oppose him because of his record. If Javits runs against Lehman, Javits will not carry New York City.

Meanwhile, because of this alliance, Oswald Heck, who could, with great effort, build a following in New York City, particularly in Queens County, is already losing that prospect. In New York City, the voters take into account race, religion and previous nationality. It is wrong and un-American but it is done that way. The Republicans can normally carry Queens and Richmond Counties, but never Bronx or Brooklyn (Kings County). Therefore Heck's chance of election is to hold the line in heavily-populated Queens. An alliance with Javits makes that impossible.

One reason that the Republicans are confused is the bad showing that Franklin D. Roosevelt made against Javits in the last election. That was due to psychological, religious and emotional reasons which are not likely to be repeated unless a Roosevelt runs. The vote was against Junior and was largely a Democratic vote against him and his family. It was not a vote for a Left-Wing Republican.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

PROBLEMS OF THE MENOPAUSE

There is a good deal being written these days about "psychosomatic" disorders. Psychosomatic is made up from two Greek words — "psyche" meaning the soul or mental life, including both conscious and unconscious processes, and "soma," meaning the body. Thus the general definition of "psychosomatic" is having bodily symptoms which originate in the soul or mind.

There are a tremendous number of symptoms or conditions which have been described as being of a psychosomatic nature but the one I would like to touch on today is the psychosomatic disorders which appear at the time of the menopause or change of life.

Leaving the actual physical symptoms aside for the moment, we can understand to a certain extent the outlook of women entering this period of middle life. "It is a time of interospection, of inventories, of soul-searching. She analyzes her limitations, her frustrations, her secret sorrows. It is a period of boredom, of anxiety, of phobias and cancer fears, of waning romance." It is a period of emotional irritability which appears at a time when the declining activity of the ovaries is bringing about a general lack of balance of the glandular system.

We also know that the average woman may find that her time of "being needed" by her family is coming to an end in the sense that the children are grown up and often married and she may be left alone in the home. Her husband is usually well established in his business or profession and there is not the need for "managing" household finances to the highest advantage that there used to be. Perhaps for the first time she has some leisure hours to spend but finds she has no hobby or special interests on which to spend them.

What about the physical symptoms? These may be hot flashes or flushes, chills, sweats, feeling of dizziness, a sensation of crawling of the skin, heart palpitations, upsets of the stomach and intestine, choking sensations, a feeling of depression and melancholy, sleeplessness, headaches, irritability, impatience, and sometimes trouble with the urinary system. A symptom which occurs much too often for mental and physical comfort is excessive bleeding from the uterus which should be investigated.

The menopause (pause or stoppage of the menses) occurs between ages of 40 and 50 as a rule; the average is 45 to 47. It usually lasts two to three years but symptoms may be present for many more years.

It is difficult for the physician to prescribe for conditions other than the physical ones but an understanding physician can do a great deal for the menopausal woman. Tomorrow we will discuss the various medical treatments which are proving of help at this period of a woman's life.

Two Strikes On Him Already

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Sweeping changes in the U. S. government's electric power, flood control, navigation, irrigation and reclamation policies are to be recommended soon by the Hoover Commission task force on water resources policy. It's headed by Adm. Ben Moreell, board chairman of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., of Pittsburgh.

A hint of what is to come in this 270-page report was given in a series of five speeches made by Adm. Morreell and his four subcommittee chairmen before the American Society of Civil Engineers at its recent St. Louis convention.

Without disclosing any of the specific recommendations to be made in the report when it is released in the near future, Adm. Moreell and his associates told the enginers what they found and what they thought about things personally.

The four subcommittee reports fill two volumes of 780 and 730 pages. They will be released simultaneously with the Hoover Commission recommendations. They are almost certain to create a great uproad from state and local governments, from water lobbies, farm organizations, special interest pressure groups and from congressmen with pet pork barrel projects.

THE DEPARTMENTS OF INTERIOR, Agriculture, the Army Corps of Engineers and all their bureaus which administer water resource projects won't like what comes out, either.

Only the private power companies and various business groups which oppose federal government spending on these projects are apt to be pleased.

Since 1824, when the government first went to work on water resources, over 14 billion dollars of taxpayers' money have been spent, Adm. Moreell told the convention. Additional projects authorized by Congress are valued at 18 billion dollars. Additional projects planned but not yet authorized are estimated at 70 billion dollars.

"Having in mind the rapidly mounting public debt," said Adm. Moreell, "it is evident that critical examination is overdue."

There is no clear-cut federal water policy, he charged.

Among the abuses and the corrective measures which he himself believes should be taken are these:

In hydro-electric development, the federal government has invaded a field which should be reserved for private enterprise.

No additional projects should be started and a beginning should be made on disposing of existing projects to state and local governments.

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT has used power and water developments for indirect social and political ends.

Navigation improvement projects have been constructed solely to bring pressure to bear on railroads and truckers to reduce freight rates.

The federal government has paid too large a share of the cost of water resource development and has required too little repayment from the beneficiaries.

In recent irrigation projects, required repayments have been between one-fourth and one-third of the capital cost. Some have been as low as one-tenth.

On flood control projects, the average local contributions have been only one-eighth of total costs.

An analysis of 212 Department of Agriculture upstream flood control projects showed the federal government bearing over 98 per cent of the cost.

Many projects have been constructed without economic justification of any kind, the Admiral declared.

The inclusion of many "indirect benefits" for such things as recreation, fish and wild-life preserves and national parks he described as "pure fantasy."

THE TASK FORCE found 43 officers and bureaus of the federal government engaged in water resource development last year.

"There is every indication," said Adm. Moreell, "that there is a lack of coordination which fosters competition among these agencies which causes controversy, confusion, duplication and waste and encourages bureaucratic ambitions.

"It is my firm intention to do all in my power to mobilize effective public support for those recommendations of the Hoover Commission with which I agree."

Knowing Adm. Moreell as one of the toughest seadogs that ever hit Washington, the capital is preparing for a simply lovely fight. During the war he organized the Seabees, supervised construction of 12 billion dollars worth of naval bases. After the war he ran the strike-bound coal mines and oil refineries before becoming head of J & L.

Douglas' Stand Could Hamper Work of Dulles

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 29—Should the President of the United States be permitted to conduct the foreign policies of the United States without interference by members of any other branch of the government?

This question has usually been resolved in favor of the executive, and that's why criticism has recently been directed against Sen. McCarthy for endeavoring to secure the passage of a resolution urging that at the four-power conference at Geneva the United States raise the issue of the status of the satellite states.

CURIOUSLY enough, no such criticism, alleging interference with the executive, has been directed at Sens. Lehman, Morse, Mansfield, Humphrey and others who recently have expressed themselves on the subject of foreign policy at variance with the President—which, of course, they have a right to do.

But now a member of the judicial branch of the government has spoken up and given an interview at Tokyo which will be read throughout Asia as a sign that there is dissension inside the United States government. If the Supreme Court is to stay out of politics, as Chief Justice Warren declares it should, it would appear that the members of the court are not obeying his warnings.

Justice William O. Douglas, of the Supreme Court of the United States, held a press conference in Japan and urged a course of action directly opposite to that being pursued by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles. It could conceivably be of considerable embarrassment to the American government in its relations with other powers.

THE JUSTICE URGED, for example that the West should recognize Communist China and recommended that China itself no longer be a member of the Security Council.

"There are two Chinas today," Justice Douglas said. "The thing to do is to recognize that fact and work out a settlement with Red China toward her recognition. At the same time we should protect Nationalist China."

The Supreme Court Justice suggested that Formosa be placed under a United Nations trusteeship until its future is decided and that a decision might be reached by a plebiscite or referendum. He added that Red China, if admitted to the UN should not be given a seat on the Security Council and that the Nationalist government's seat should be given to some other power so that neither China would be on the Council.

THIS IS EXACTLY what many Europeans and not a few Asians really want to see happen. It's the way to kill the Nationalist government and deprive the United States of the biggest military force it now has allied with it for the protection of Southeast Asia against Communist aggression.

The moment the 600,000 Nationalist troops in Formosa are formally advised that they cannot hope to go back to the mainland of China and that the great government of the United States has forever cut them off from the opportunity to regain their liberty in their own homeland, the Nationalist government will collapse overnight. Their case would be hopeless. America would lose face throughout Asia.

Also, when a Supreme Court Justice advances that kind of a formula, it is bound to give the European governments which have been at odds with Secretary Dulles on this issue considerable encouragement.

NOW, IT SO happens that American sentiment against the admission of Red China has on the whole not changed. There is still a deep-seated feeling that the aggressor should not be rewarded by a seat in the United Nations. The latter organization denounced the Peiping government as an aggressor in February 1951, and 40,000 American boys were killed and 110,000 wounded in repelling that aggression.

Many Americans formerly in public life—as, for instance, former Sen. Austin of Vermont, head of the United States delegation at the UN, and Gen. George Marshall—are members of a Committee of One Million against the admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

BUT, IRRESPECTIVE of the merits or demerits of Justice Douglas's proposals, will be "Left Wingers" in America be as vociferous in criticizing him for butting in on the executive branch of the government as they have been in the case of Sen. McCarthy? Indeed, will they criticize Justice Douglas at all? It will be interesting to watch for any such comments from the "Left Wing" press in America.

Confederate Vet, 112 To Ride in Parade

Temple, Tex., June 29 (AP)—Walter Williams, 112-year-old Confederate veteran from Franklin, Tex., said he wasn't about to sit on the sidelines, but would ride in today's parade celebrating the 75th year of the Santa Fe railroad in Temple.

Williams, advised yesterday he was expected to sit and watch, said no, he was going to ride in the parade. After all, he was approaching middle age when this young whippersnapper of a town was born.

Williams, a forage master for Hood in the Civil War, was to be presented a battle flag from Texas' Hood's Brigade.

The parade Williams insisted on riding in was to feature the Ft. Hood Jeep Band, the 49th Armored Division Band, and 700 horses from numerous central Texas riding clubs.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The paltry quality of awards of "honor" which are conferred by American institutions of learning is well represented by a political salute by the University of Arizona to E. Palmer Hoyt, editor of the Denver Post. Hoyt received the Peter Zenger award for distinguished work in American journalism. Zenger was a New York editor who, at risk of death, criticized a British colonial governor in 1735. Hoyt's exploit was an abusive campaign against Senator Joe McCarthy.

In the course of this attack he lauded an underworld character with a criminal record formerly connected with the Bugsy Segal mob in Las Vegas. In a paper subsidized by the printers' union, this ex-convict vilified Senator McCarthy in terms which Hoyt himself did not dare to reprint. The Denver Post itself has a notorious reputation dating from the gaudy licentiousness of Tammen and Bonfils, two rapscalion rogues of frontier journalism well recounted by Gene Fowler in his classical memoir entitled "Timber Line." Hoyt is a sales and circulation promoter. Unlike Zenger, he did not run the risk of a slap in the mouth.

This selection was made by Douglas D. Martin, professor of the School of Journalism. Martin never went to any college, yet claims full power to commit the university in praise of any conduct which he deems laudable. Next year he very well might commit the university to an "award" to Hank Greenspun, the underworld genius of Las Vegas journalism who earned Hoyt's praise by wanton scurrility and indifference to the inhibitions of decency and truth. The university is supported by public taxes.

Martin's citation read that Hoyt had made "an outstanding contribution to the preservation of the freedom of the press and the people's right to know." He said he could do this without permission of the Board of Regents or anyone else although he "took it up with the dean" and presumed that the dean "took it up with the president." In actual fact, the Board of Regents did approve and the president, Richard A. Harvill, was photographed presenting the "award" to Hoyt.

William R. Mathews, editor of the Arizona Star, the Tucson morning paper, a member of the Pulitzer Board and also of the Board of Regents, expressed approval. Although Martin later insisted that his choice was not political, Mathews pulled the rug from under the professor with an editorial praising Hoyt for exposing "the methods of Senator McCarthy." These "methods," he wrote, consisted of "making irresponsible charges about the civilian scientists and helpers at Fort Monmouth, yet failing to find a single one, although not one who was suspected claimed protection of the Fifth Amendment."

Unfortunately for Mathews' purpose, the formal report of the Senate subcommittee, published by the Democrats last April 25, said: "It was established that the Rosenberg spy ring took secrets from the Signal Corps and transferred them to Rusia. Rosenberg stole the proximity fuse and handed it over to a Russian agent. A member of the Rosenberg spy ring who had been employed by the Signal Corps was Joen Barr. He has fled the United States and is reported living behind the Iron Curtain. Alfred Sarrant was employed at Monmouth. Sarrant was identified as a member of the Rosenberg spy apparatus. Like Barr, he is reported to be living behind the Iron Curtain.

"Morton Sobell is serving 30 years for conspiracy to commit sabotage. The Rosenberg ring could possibly be continuing to this very day. Rosenberg had access to Signal Corps installations, including Fort Monmouth.

"Thirty-five Signal Corps employes, Fort Monmouth, were suspended on loyalty and security grounds, eight were discharged after hearings. Three resigned. In addition, the following (a list of 11) were suspended, discharged or resigned. Six additional employes were denied access to classified information. Four of these have resigned. The other two were cleared and have been reinstated."

Mathews seems to have been mistaken in writing that "not one who was suspected claimed protection of the Fifth Amendment." The committee report said Wendell H. Furry, professor of physics at Harvard, "invoked the protection of the Fifth Amendment." It said Theodore Pappas took the Fifth in refusing to say whether he was a Communist when he was at Monmouth. It said the Fifth was invoked also by David L. Linfield, Sidney Glassman, Diana Moldover Wolman, Leonard E. Mins, Harry Grundfest, Sylvia Berke, Albert Socol, Samuel Joseph Snyder, Joseph Levitsky, Marcel Ullman and others. Levitsky gave Julius Rosenberg as a character reference in his application for work at Fort Monmouth.

TRUE CHARACTER OF A CITY

At first impression many of America's cities appear quite similar. But closer study shows them to be tremendously varied, as rich in their diversity as the regions they reflect.

Most people have strong favorites among our cities (not counting their home towns). They may fasten on one place as having almost everything they like in a city. Or they may prefer one town for its scenic setting, another for its shops, another for its theatre and other entertainment, and so on.

These attachments are natural and inevitable. Much travel is for sheer enjoyment, obviously, and you cannot ask that people make a course of study out of it.

Yet it could mean much to them, and to their country, if more often they went about in search of understanding as well as enjoyment. As a matter of fact, the two are of course not mutually exclusive. Understanding is not a dull commodity, to be shunned if possible.

Cities deserve to be looked at whole. However satisfying it may be to reflect on such thoughts, it is not enough to say of, for example, San Francisco: "Those wonderful hills . . . those bridges . . . the restaurants . . . the cosmopolitan atmosphere."

All true, any viewer of that marvelously spectacular city would agree. But this is not the full measure of San Francisco, any more than a similar appraisal would be of any other city.

The true gauge of a city is: What kind of place is it to live in? For cities are places to live and work, and only secondarily places to visit.

Is it a city where daily living is for the most part fairly agreeable and healthy? Is a good share of the housing suitable, with light and space and some green in its setting?

Can people get back and forth to work with fair dispatch and without staggering inconvenience?

Are the neighborhood shops and service facilities reasonably accessible, so that shopping for all the daily necessities is a tolerable, even pleasant experience instead of a frenzied nightmare?

Are there lots of places for children to play? Are the cultural and entertainment "wonders" the city boasts of to visitors easily available to the homefolks?

These are simple, elemental questions. But only by getting the answers to them can you really determine the quality of life in a city.

A city is a place for all its citizens. It cannot be fully judged by those who travel only the hotel - restaurant - theatre - night club-museum circuit.

If it doesn't pass the simple tests of value to all its people, then its glamorous excitements can hardly compensate. The city then becomes something of a movie set, all fancy glitter in front but only crude skeleton framework behind.

The Marines are to have a special shrine in Philadelphia, where the corps was founded on Nov 10, 1775. The location will be the so-called New Hall, near Independence Hall, built in 1791 and now to be restored as a memorial museum to the Marines.

SAME OLD MOLOTOV

If there is any change in the policies and attitudes of the rulers of the Soviet Union it was not apparent in the speech delivered by V. M. Molotov at San Francisco.

As usual the Soviet Union was depicted in his speech as the rallying point for all who want peace and the Western powers were blamed for all the tension in the world. Molotov hauled out all the specific proposals for peace on Russian terms that he has made so many times before and which the free nations have always found unacceptable.

It may be that Molotov was trying out the first position the Soviet will take at Geneva—a position from which they may be willing to give some ground. There was little about his speech, however, that made any such conclusion predictable. It was the same old Molotov, peddling the same old line—just as loud and angry as ever.

NEW YORK POLITICS

The only reason that the small politics of New York State are important is that this State affects the national conventions and the nominations for President and Vice President. The Democrats are moving ahead under the leadership of Carmine DeSapio and Governor Averell Harriman. The Republicans are in a state of confusion because they cannot make up their minds whether Tom Dewey is still the Boss or has retired to the private practice of law.

This situation has become further confused by the fact that the Democrats won all the state offices but one, namely, the Attorney-General, to which Jacob Javits was elected because enough Democrats would not vote for Franklin R. Roosevelt, Jr.

By all the rules of the game, this would make Javits the Republican leader. But many, some say most, Republicans here do not regard Javits as their leader. Many even deny that he is a Republican but feel that he has chosen this party as a vehicle for election to public office. They believe that at heart he belongs to the Liberal Party, a Socialist organization.

Recently, Charles A. Buckley, Democratic leader of the Bronx and a great power in his party, before a large audience at the Waldorf-Astoria, cut off the Liberal Party, said that the Democrats could survive without their endorsements, but indicated that the Liberals would be welcomed in the Democratic Party. The effect was electric. The Liberal Party has been receiving a measure of patronage, sometimes too much from the Democrats. There would be no more of that.

The Republicans, under Javits, then proceeded to move to the Left, hopeful of capturing the support of the Socialist Liberals. There is a Republican in the State of New York, Oswald D. Heck, generally known as "Ozzie," who has long been in the State Legislature and is the speaker of the Assembly when the Republicans are in the majority. Ozzie's ambition is to be Governor of the State.

There is no question as to his ability. He is a competent man who has often helped Thomas E. Dewey over a tough spot. Heck's political difficulty is that while he is very popular in the northern part of the state and would get a large vote there, he is practically unknown in New York City, where, as things stand now, he would not even get the full Republican vote.

So Heck has formed an alliance with Javits, which means that Heck has moved to the Left where Javits has always been. The idea of the alliance is that Javits will run for United States Senator against Herbert Lehman and Heck will run for governor against Averell Harriman, if Harriman does not run for President and is not elected to that office. It is a wonderful scheme, beneficial to the Democrats.

Herbert Lehman is now 77 years old and will be 78 when he has to run for re-election. Despite many reasons why he should not be popular, the fact is that he is popular. If he runs in 1956, he will be elected if for no other reason than the sentimental one that the aged gentleman should be permitted to end his life in the United States Senate. While Lehman belongs to the A.D.A. group of Democrats, the association will not hurt him. The Liberal Party cannot oppose him because of his record. If Javits runs against Lehman, Javits will not carry New York City.

Meanwhile, because of this alliance, Oswald Heck, who could, with great effort, build a following in New York City, particularly in Queens County, is already losing that prospect. In New York City, the voters take into account race, religion and previous nationality. It is wrong and un-American but it is done that way. The Republicans can normally carry Queens and Richmond Counties, but never Bronx or Brooklyn (Kings County). Therefore Heck's chance of election is to hold the line in heavily-populated Queens. An alliance with Javits makes that impossible.

One reason that the Republicans are confused is the bad showing that Franklin D. Roosevelt made against Javits in the last election. That was due to psychological, religious and emotional reasons which are not likely to be repeated unless a Roosevelt runs. The vote was against Junior and was largely a Democratic vote against him and his family. It was not a vote for a Left-Wing Republican.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

PROBLEMS OF THE MENOPAUSE

There is a good deal being written these days about "psychosomatic" disorders. Psychosomatic is made up from two Greek words — "psyche" meaning the soul or mental life, including both conscious and unconscious processes, and "soma," meaning the body. Thus the general definition of "psychosomatic" is having bodily symptoms which originate in the soul or mind.

There are a tremendous number of symptoms or conditions which have been described as being of a psychosomatic nature but the one I would like to touch on today is the psychosomatic disorders which appear at the time of the menopause or change of life.

Leaving the actual physical symptoms aside for the moment, we can understand to a certain extent the outlook of women entering this period of middle life. "It is a time of interospection, of inventories, of soul-searching. She analyzes her limitations, her frustrations, her secret sorrows. It is a period of boredom, of anxiety, of phobias and cancer fears, of waning romance." It is a period of emotional irritability which appears at a time when the declining activity of the ovaries is bringing about a general lack of balance of the glandular system.

We also know that the average woman may find that her time of "being needed" by her family is coming to an end in the sense that the children are grown up and often married and she may be left alone in the home. Her husband is usually well established in his business or profession and there is not the need for "managing" household finances to the highest advantage that there used to be. Perhaps for the first time she has some leisure hours to spend but finds she has no hobby or special interests on which to spend them.

What about the physical symptoms? These may be hot flashes or flushes, chills, sweats, feeling of dizziness, a sensation of crawling of the skin, heart palpitations, upsets of the stomach and intestine, choking sensations, a feeling of depression and melancholy, sleeplessness, headaches, irritability, impatience, and sometimes trouble with the urinary system. A symptom which occurs much too often for mental and physical comfort is excessive bleeding from the uterus which should be investigated.

The menopause (pause or stoppage of the menses) occurs between ages of 40 and 50 as a rule; the average is 45 to 47. It usually lasts two to three years but symptoms may be present for many more years.

It is difficult for the physician to prescribe for conditions other than the physical ones but an understanding physician can do a great deal for the menopausal woman. Tomorrow we will discuss the various medical treatments which are proving of help at this period of a woman's life.

Two Strikes On Him Already

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Sweeping changes in the U. S. government's electric power, flood control, navigation, irrigation and reclamation policies are to be recommended soon by the Hoover Commission task force on water resources policy. It's headed by Adm. Ben Moreell, board chairman of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., of Pittsburgh.

A hint of what is to come in this 270-page report was given in a series of five speeches made by Adm. Morreell and his four subcommittee chairmen before the American Society of Civil Engineers at its recent St. Louis convention.

Without disclosing any of the specific recommendations to be made in the report when it is released in the near future, Adm. Morcell and his associates told the enginers what they found and what they thought about things personally.

The four subcommittee reports fill two volumes of 780 and 730 pages. They will be released simultaneously with the Hoover Commission recommendations. They are almost certain to create a great uproad from state and local governments, from water lobbies, farm organizations, special interest pressure groups and from congressmen with pet pork barrel projects.

THE DEPARTMENTS OF INTERIOR, Agriculture, the Army Corps of Engineers and all their bureaus which administer water resource projects won't like what comes out, either.

Only the private power companies and various business groups which oppose federal government spending on these projects are apt to be pleased.

Since 1824, when the government first went to work on water resources, over 14 billion dollars of taxpayers' money have been spent, Adm. Moreell told the convention. Additional projects authorized by Congress are valued at 18 billion dollars. Additional projects planned but not yet authorized are estimated at 70 billion dollars.

"Having in mind the rapidly mounting public debt," said Adm. Moreell, "it is evident that critical examination is overdue."

There is no clear-cut federal water policy, he charged.

Among the abuses and the corrective measures which he himself believes should be taken are these:

In hydro-electric development, the federal government has invaded a field which should be reserved for private enterprise.

No additional projects should be started and a beginning should be made on disposing of existing projects to state and local governments.

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT has used power and water developments for indirect social and political ends.

Navigation improvement projects have been constructed solely to bring pressure to bear on railroads and truckers to reduce freight rates.

The federal government has paid too large a share of the cost of water resource development and has required too little repayment from the beneficiaries.

In recent irrigation projects, required repayments have been between one-fourth and one-third of the capital cost. Some have been as low as one-tenth.

On flood control projects, the average local contributions have been only one-eighth of total costs.

An analysis of 212 Department of Agriculture upstream flood control projects showed the federal government bearing over 98 per cent of the cost.

Many projects have been constructed without economic justification of any kind, the Admiral declared.

The inclusion of many "indirect benefits" for such things as recreation, fish and wild-life preserves and national parks he described as "pure fantasy."

THE TASK FORCE found 43 officers and bureaus of the federal government engaged in water resource development last year.

"There is every indication," said Adm. Moreell, "that there is a lack of coordination which fosters competition among these agencies which causes controversy, confusion, duplication and waste and encourages bureaucratic ambitions.

"It is my firm intention to do all in my power to mobilize effective public support for those recommendations of the Hoover Commission with which I agree."

Knowing Adm. Moreell as one of the toughest seadogs that ever hit Washington, the capital is preparing for a simply lovely fight. During the war he organized the Seabees, supervised construction of 12 billion dollars worth of naval bases. After the war he ran the strike-bound coal mines and oil refineries before becoming head of J & L.

Today in Washington

Douglas' Stand Could Hamper Work of Dulles

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 29—Should the President of the United States be permitted to conduct the foreign policies of the United States without interference by members of any other branch of the government?

This question has usually been resolved in favor of the executive, and that's why criticism has recently been directed against Sen. McCarthy for endeavoring to secure the passage of a resolution urging that at the four-power conference at Geneva the United States raise the issue of the status of the satellite states.

CURIOUSLY enough, no such criticism, alleging interference with the executive, has been directed at Sens. Lehman, Morse, Mansfield, Humphrey and others who recently have expressed themselves on the subject of foreign policy at variance with the President—which, of course, they have a right to do.

But now a member of the judicial branch of the government has spoken up and given an interview at Tokyo which will be read throughout Asia as a sign that there is dissension inside the United States government. If the Supreme Court is to stay out of politics, as Chief Justice Warren declares it should, it would appear that the members of the court are not obeying his warnings.

Justice William O. Douglas, of the Supreme Court of the United States, held a press conference in Japan and urged a course of action directly opposite to that being pursued by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles. It could conceivably be of considerable embarrassment to the American government in its relations with other powers.

THE JUSTICE URGED, for example that the West should recognize Communist China and recommended that China itself no longer be a member of the Security Council.

"There are two Chinas today," Justice Douglas said. "The thing to do is to recognize that fact and work out a settlement with Red China toward her recognition. At the same time we should protect Nationalist China."

The Supreme Court Justice suggested that Formosa be placed under a United Nations trusteeship until its future is decided and that a decision might be reached by a plebiscite or referendum. He added that Red China, if admitted to the UN should not be given a seat on the Security Council and that the Nationalist government's seat should be given to some other power so that neither China would be on the Council.

THIS IS EXACTLY what many Europeans and not a few Asians really want to see happen. It's the way to kill the Nationalist government and deprive the United States of the biggest military force it now has allied with it for the protection of Southeast Asia against Communist aggression.

The moment the 600,000 Nationalist troops in Formosa are formally advised that they cannot hope to go back to the mainland of China and that the great government of the United States has forever cut them off from the opportunity to regain their liberty in their own homeland, the Nationalist government will collapse overnight. Their case would be hopeless. America would lose face throughout Asia.

Also, when a Supreme Court Justice advances that kind of a formula, it is bound to give the European governments which have been at odds with Secretary Dulles on this issue considerable encouragement.

NOW, IT SO happens that American sentiment against the admission of Red China has on the whole not changed. There is still a deep-seated feeling that the aggressor should not be rewarded by a seat in the United Nations. The latter organization denounced the Peiping government as an aggressor in February 1951, and 40,000 American boys were killed and 110,000 wounded in repelling that aggression.

Many Americans formerly in public life—as, for instance, former Sen. Austin of Vermont, head of the United States delegation at the UN, and Gen. George Marshall—are members of a Committee of One Million against the admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

BUT, IRRESPECTIVE of the merits or demerits of Justice Douglas's proposals, will be "Left Wingers" in America be as vociferous in criticizing him for butting in on the executive branch of the government as they have been in the case of Sen. McCarthy? Indeed, will they criticize Justice Douglas at all? It will be interesting to watch for any such comments from the "Left Wing" press in America.

Confederate Vet, 112 To Ride in Parade

Temple, Tex., June 29 (AP)—Walter Williams, 112-year-old Confederate veteran from Franklin, Tex., said he wasn't about to sit on the sidelines, but would ride in today's parade celebrating the 75th year of the Santa Fe railroad in Temple.

Williams, advised yesterday he was expected to sit and watch, said no, he was going to ride in the parade. After all, he was approaching middle age when this young whippersnapper of a town was born.

Williams, a forage master for Hood in the Civil War, was to be presented a battle flag from Texas' Hood's Brigade.

The parade Williams insisted on riding in was to feature the Ft. Hood Jeep Band, the 49th Armored Division Band, and 700 horses from numerous central Texas riding clubs.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The paltry quality of awards of "honor" which are conferred by American institutions of learning is well represented by a political salute by the University of Arizona to E. Palmer Hoyt, editor of the Denver Post. Hoyt received the Peter Zenger award for distinguished work in American journalism. Zenger was a New York editor who, at risk of death, criticized a British colonial governor in 1735. Hoyt's exploit was an abusive campaign against Senator Joe McCarthy.

In the course of this attack he lauded an underworld character with a criminal record formerly connected with the Bugsy Segal mob in Las Vegas. In a paper subsidized by the printers' union, this ex-convict vilified Senator McCarthy in terms which Hoyt himself did not dare to reprint. The Denver Post itself has a notorious reputation dating from the gaudy licentiousness of Tammen and Bonfils, two rapscalion rogues of frontier journalism well recounted by Gene Fowler in his classical memoir entitled "Timber Line." Hoyt is a sales and circulation promoter. Unlike Zenger, he did not run the risk of a slap in the mouth.

This selection was made by Douglas D. Martin, professor of the School of Journalism. Martin never went to any college, yet claims full power to commit the university in praise of any conduct which he deems laudable. Next year he very well might commit the university to an "award" to Hank Greenspun, the underworld genius of Las Vegas journalism who earned Hoyt's praise by wanton scurrility and indifference to the inhibitions of decency and truth. The university is supported by public taxes.

Martin's citation read that Hoyt had made "an outstanding contribution to the preservation of the freedom of the press and the people's right to know." He said he could do this without permission of the Board of Regents or anyone else although he "took it up with the dean" and presumed that the dean "took it up with the president." In actual fact, the Board of Regents did approve and the president, Richard A. Harvill, was photographed presenting the "award" to Hoyt.

William R. Mathews, editor of the Arizona Star, the Tucson morning paper, a member of the Pulitzer Board and also of the Board of Regents, expressed approval. Although Martin later insisted that his choice was not political, Mathews pulled the rug from under the professor with an editorial praising Hoyt for exposing "the methods of Senator McCarthy." These "methods," he wrote, consisted of "making irresponsible charges about the civilian scientists and helpers at Fort Monmouth, yet failing to find a single one, although not one who was suspected claimed protection of the Fifth Amendment."

"Morton Sobell is serving 30 years for conspiracy to commit sabotage. The Rosenberg ring could possibly be continuing to this very day. Rosenberg had access to Signal Corps installations, including Fort Monmouth.

"Thirty-five Signal Corps employes, Fort Monmouth, were suspended on loyalty and security grounds, eight were discharged after hearings. Three resigned. In addition, the following (a list of 11) were suspended, discharged or resigned. Six additional employes were denied access to classified information. Four of these have resigned. Mathews seems to have been mistaken in writing that "not one who was suspected claimed protection of the Fifth Amendment." The committee report said Wendell H. Films Scheduled For Artist Series

Woodstock, June 29 — One Thursday, June 30, the Woodstock Artists Association will hold the first of its extension programs, featuring two moving pictures to be shown in the garden behind the gallery. The first is a W. C. Fields movie with Gloria Jean and Leon Errol entitled "Never Give a Sucker an Even Break," to be followed by a short in color on the life of Toulouse-Lautrec. The program will begin at 8:45 p. m.

In the Fields film a famous movie comedian becomes a young girl's guardian, becoming involved in a wild mix up of hectic plane trips and other excitement.

The Toulouse-Lautrec film is described as lively, comprehensive and informative, drawing on photographs, paintings, drawings and etchings by the famous artist. In addition there are scenes of Paris streets and cafes, all a part of the world in which the artist lived. Lautrec's own works are used to people that world with his own particular vision of Paris at the turn of the century. Excellent in color, the film avoids sentimentality and sensationalism. It was awarded first prize, Art Film Award, Cleveland Film Festival in 1953.

Let TCP re-power your engine over the 4th

No need to put a tool to your engine to get more power for your holiday trip. Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP* can tune it up for you while you drive.

Before you've used two tankfuls, Shell Premium with TCP overcomes the power-stealing effects of increased engine deposits formed by today's "around-town" driving. By "fireproofing" these deposits in combustion chambers, TCP additive prevents pre-firing.

By changing the deposits on spark plugs so that they no longer short-circuit, TCP puts spark plugs back to work "full time."

As a result, Shell Premium with TCP restores lost power—power you never expected to enjoy again. But to retain the full power of high octane gasoline, continued use of Shell Premium with TCP is essential. It's the most powerful gasoline your car can use.

*Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for.

Only Shell Premium Gasoline has both TCP and High Octane!

Youngsters to Help In Carp Control Plan

Saugerties, June 29—A project to control carp in the upper Esopus involving the junior members of the club was discussed at the regular meeting of the Saugerties Fish and Game Club held Monday night at the R. A. Snyder Fire Company rooms of the Municipal Building.

The project was suggested by John Kaminski of Mt. Marion who said the plan to control carp had been tried in other communities and prizes given to the youngsters.

THE GROUP voted to award a prize of $5 to the junior member who catches the largest carp in the upper Esopus between now and Sept. 1. Hugh Craft, member of the club, will serve as checking station on the creek. Junior members must register their catch with Mr. Craft and also show a junior membership card. Also an additional control on carp was suggested by Mr. Craft by which the club would obtain a special permit to allow Nelson Overbaugh to seine for carp in the Upper Creek in September.

Art Sperl, fish committee chairman, reported that the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Division suggested the club apply for brown trout for planting in the Plattekill. He reported that tentative approval had been received from the State Conservation Department for such a planting. It was the decision of the club to plant this new acquisition of brown trout in the Plattekill below Fish Creek and through Mt. Marion in order to encourage membership of the new residents of that area.

Carlton B. King, president of the Federated Sportsmen's Club of Ulster county and local member, reported receiving a communication from Robert G. Ohlman, district game manager, which said that the State Conservation Department would distribute pheasants to the local club the first week in July.

King also reported that his son had raised 34 pheasants as a project of the 4H Club and that these would be set out in the Saugerties area shortly.

Secretary Walter B. Pettinger reported that Cecil E. Heacox, district fisheries manager, would be invited to attend the next meeting of the club scheduled for Monday, July 25, at 8 p. m.

Heacox will plan a discussion on the planting of legal size trout in Saugerties waters.

AS A RESULT of the clean-up program of the Ashokan Reservoir grounds sponsored by the Federated Sportsmen in conjunction with the Boy Scouts of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Mr. King who instituted the project asked for the cooperation of all sportsmen to refrain from leaving litter at their fishing sites. He emphasized that true sportsmen do not leave rubbish when they are guests on someone's property.

Prior to the serving of refreshments and the showing of the sound-color film on Sail Fishing, the award of the month was presented to Thomas Rea, Sr., of Partition street.

Treasurer Robert Thompson presided in the absence of Richard L. Melius, president.

Truck Strike Not Expected to Hit Hudson Valley

Truckmen in the Hudson Valley region are not expected to be affected by a work stoppage in New England, a local spokesman for the industry said today.

A large eastern trucking company, said an Associated Press report from Boston notified its drivers to report today on a standby basis, but no other signs of settlement of a southern New England wage dispute, was indicated, the AP report said. The large eastern company expected to move freight late today.

CLAUDE L. NEEDES, president and treasurer of Needes Express, Inc., South Manor avenue, said that truckmen in the Hudson Valley are "signed up" on contract agreements, and no stoppage is expected unless a sympathy move developes.

An estimated 17,000 drivers are reported idle in the New England dispute.

A union spokesman, Chester G. Fitzpatrick of Worcester, chairman of the union Negotiating Committee said the "AT" drivers are "on the premises" but he added his group has had no word from the employers.

A spokesman for the management group representing 500 firms in southern New England said no contract had been signed by "AT" but would make no further explanation.

The "AT" notice to its employes went out on the heels of a warning by the management group that continuation of the strike may force some industrial plants to curtail operations because of lack of shipping facilities.

Youngsters to Help In Carp Control Plan

Saugerties, June 29—A project to control carp in the upper Esopus involving the junior members of the club was discussed at the regular meeting of the Saugerties Fish and Game Club held Monday night at the R. A. Snyder Fire Company rooms of the Municipal Building.

The project was suggested by John Kaminski of Mt. Marion who said the plan to control carp had been tried in other communities and prizes given to the youngsters.

THE GROUP voted to award a prize of $5 to the junior member who catches the largest carp in the upper Esopus between now and Sept. 1. Hugh Craft, member of the club, will serve as checking station on the creek. Junior members must register their catch with Mr. Craft and also show a junior membership card. Also an additional control on carp was suggested by Mr. Craft by which the club would obtain a special permit to allow Nelson Overbaugh to seine for carp in the Upper Creek in September.

Art Sperl, fish committee chairman, reported that the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Division suggested the club apply for brown trout for planting in the Plattekill. He reported that tentative approval had been received from the State Conservation Department for such a planting. It was the decision of the club to plant this new acquisition of brown trout in the Plattekill below Fish Creek and through Mt. Marion in order to encourage membership of the new residents of that area.

Carlton B. King, president of the Federated Sportsmen's Club of Ulster county and local member, reported receiving a communication from Robert G. Ohlman, district game manager, which said that the State Conservation Department would distribute pheasants to the local club the first week in July.

King also reported that his son had raised 34 pheasants as a project of the 4H Club and that these would be set out in the Saugerties area shortly.

Secretary Walter B. Pettinger reported that Cecil E. Heacox, district fisheries manager, would be invited to attend the next meeting of the club scheduled for Monday, July 25, at 8 p. m.

Heacox will plan a discussion on the planting of legal size trout in Saugerties waters.

AS A RESULT of the clean-up program of the Ashokan Reservoir grounds sponsored by the Federated Sportsmen in conjunction with the Boy Scouts of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Mr. King who instituted the project asked for the cooperation of all sportsmen to refrain from leaving litter at their fishing sites. He emphasized that true sportsmen do not leave rubbish when they are guests on someone's property.

Prior to the serving of refreshments and the showing of the sound-color film on Sail Fishing, the award of the month was presented to Thomas Rea, Sr., of Partition street.

Treasurer Robert Thompson presided in the absence of Richard L. Melius, president.

Truck Strike Not Expected to Hit Hudson Valley

Truckmen in the Hudson Valley region are not expected to be affected by a work stoppage in New England, a local spokesman for the industry said today.

A large eastern trucking company, said an Associated Press report from Boston notified its drivers to report today on a standby basis, but no other signs of settlement of a southern New England wage dispute, was indicated, the AP report said. The large eastern company expected to move freight late today.

CLAUDE L. NEEDES, president and treasurer of Needes Express, Inc., South Manor avenue, said that truckmen in the Hudson Valley are "signed up" on contract agreements, and no stoppage is expected unless a sympathy move developes.

An estimated 17,000 drivers are reported idle in the New England dispute.

A union spokesman, Chester G. Fitzpatrick of Worcester, chairman of the union Negotiating Committee said the "AT" drivers are "on the premises" but he added his group has had no word from the employers.

A spokesman for the management group representing 500 firms in southern New England said no contract had been signed by "AT" but would make no further explanation.

The "AT" notice to its employes went out on the heels of a warning by the management group that continuation of the strike may force some industrial plants to curtail operations because of lack of shipping facilities.

Stresses Import Of TV in Schools

Hempstead, N. Y., June 29 (AP) —State Comptroller Arthur Levitt says advances in educational television justify a new look at an old plan for a state-owned network for 10 educational TV stations.

In 1952 the State Board of Regents proposed that the state establish such a network but the project was turned down as too expensive.

Levitt last night told the New York committee for the White House conference on education that the state had once been a leader in educational TV planning. However, he added, "other areas moved quickly to action and are now far in the lead."

LEVITT SAID educational TV could supplement school curricula for children and "in the field of adult education, the potentialities of educational TV are unlimited."

The Regents' plan had called for the state to build and operate 10 stations scattered throughout the state. Later the State Commission on Educational TV turned down the proposal, saying it would cost too much.

THE LEGISLATURE last year authorized the Regents to charter private organizations to operate noncommercial educational TV and so far two have been licensed, one in New York city and one in Schenectady.

The 1955 Legislature appropriated $25,000 for educational TV by the State Education Department.

In Albany Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. said the department would wait for the results of this study before making a decision on what should be done about educational TV.

The pilot taxied his plane over to the crew and called out "I'm lost. Which way is Easton?"

"It's that way," Fluhart said he answered, pointing southsoutheast.

The pilot thanked him and took off.

Easton's only 15 miles from here.

The Mapai holds 47 of the 120 Knesset (parliament) seats and the General Zionists have 20. The Mapai held nine of the 16 cabinet jobs. A party spokesman said the decision to break up the coalition was taken after the General Zionists abstained from voting on a no-confidence motion in Parliament yesterday. Sharett called on President Izhak Ben Zvi to inform him of the government's decision to quit.

33 Millionth Chevy Is Built

Detroit, June 29 (AP)—Chevrolet Motors announced the completion today of the 33 millionth motor vehicle to be built in its assembly plants.

Chevrolet, apparently headed for another production record this year, already has built about 1,150,000 cars and trucks so far in 1955 in its U. S. and Canadian factories. One million of these were completed in five months and four days.

IN CHEVROLET'S previous biggest year, 1950, it built a million vehicles in five months and 19 days.

Thomas H. Keating, Chevrolet manager, said this year's first million units were assembled faster than any other manufacturer has ever produced a similar volume. He noted also that Chevrolet plants this year set new record daily and monthly figures by turning out 10,164 cars and trucks on May 31, and a total of 211,416 during the month of May.

Chevrolet's first full year of production was 1912, when its plants built 2,999 vehicles.

FORD, BATTLING Chevrolet for top place in production and sales, started production in 1903. In its approximately 52 years of operation its U. S. Ford division plants have built 39,400,000 cars and trucks. Ford's 1955 output to date includes approximately 1,075,000 Ford cars and trucks built in its U. S. factories.

IN CHEVROLET'S previous biggest year, 1950, it built a million vehicles in five months and 19 days.

Thomas H. Keating, Chevrolet manager, said this year's first million units were assembled faster than any other manufacturer has ever produced a similar volume. He noted also that Chevrolet plants this year set new record daily and monthly figures by turning out 10,164 cars and trucks on May 31, and a total of 211,416 during the month of May.

Chevrolet's first full year of production was 1912, when its plants built 2,999 vehicles.

FORD, BATTLING Chevrolet for top place in production and sales, started production in 1903. In its approximately 52 years of operation its U. S. Ford division plants have built 39,400,000 cars and trucks. Ford's 1955 output to date includes approximately 1,075,000 Ford cars and trucks built in its U. S. factories.

Cross to China

Hong Kong, June 29 (AP)—Some 1,400 Singapore and Indonesian Chinese—about 1,000 of them pro-Communist students and the rest mainly destitute families—crossed the Hong Kong border into Red China today. Chinese newsmen said it was one of the largest groups of overseas Chinese to pass through the British colony for China since the Communists took over.

U. S. Spending

In boom years before World War 2, U. S. spending for personal consumption was often 70 per cent of gross national product, but it was 63 and 65 per cent in 1953 and 1954 respectively, says the National Industrial Conference Board.

Would Bomb Reds

Taipei, Formosa, June 29 (AP)—A Nationalist Chinese clamor to bomb Communist air bases along the mainland coast developed here today. The English-language China News said Nationalist air force pilots were fretful because they are restrained from blasting the bases opposite Formosa. Presumably it was from the newest and biggest of these bases that the Reds launched attacks by Soviet-built MIGs on Monday. The MIGs shot down a Nationalist jet plane and damaged a civilian flying boat. The Hsin Sheng Pao, mouthpiece of the Formosa provincial government, urged the American air forces to "destroy the enemy's seaboard air bases." Several papers said Monday's attacks signaled a possible early invasion of the offshore islands.

WORLD'S LARGEST FRYING PAN—A thousand broiler halves will be cooked at a time in this 75-foot, 36-burner frying pan for poultrymen attending the New York State Poultrymen's Get-Together on July 12 and 13 at Cornell.

Poultrymen to See Thousand Broilers Cooked at Once

Ulster county poultrymen attending the Poultrymen's Get-Together at Cornell July 12 and 13 will see 1,000 broiler halves cooked at a time in the world's largest frying pan, according to Robert D. Guzewich, associate county agricultural agent.

The frying pan measures over 15 feet in diameter and is heated by gas burners large enough to heat 36 average homes. Duncan Hines, famous food expert, will add his approval to the chicken cookery.

The two-day event will cover a wide variety of topics interesting to turkey growers, commercial egg producers, and broiler raisers.

FOUR SUBJECTS will be highlighted this year: Housing, disease, the New York random sample test and the laying flock of the future, Mr. Guzewich said.

Dr. George Jaap of Ohio State University will serve as panel leader to discuss the laying flock of the future. Other members of the panel will include Dr. E. F. Godfrey of Mt. Hope Farms, Williamstown, Mass., Martin Schabkegel, Lakewood, N. J., and Robert Wallace, Doylestown, Pa.

Detailed programs are available from Mr. Guzewich, 74 John street, Kingston.

Sleeps Under Debris On Dumping Site

Charleston, W. Va., June 29 (AP)—Being buried alive was all in a night's sleep for Bill Tinsley, a 55-year-old "repeater" in city police court.

At least, that's what the Charleston resident told police yesterday when he was pulled from beneath a dump heap on the bank of Elk river.

A bulldozer operator could hardly believe his eyes when he saw a pair of feet protruding from a pile of dirt and debris shoved to one side. His call brought two patrolmen, who began digging frantically in the dirt.

Tinsley was found near the bottom, loudly protesting the sudden interruption in his sleep. He was to be arraigned today on a drunk charge.

Denied Passport

New York, June 29 (AP)—A reporter for the Daily Worker, official newspaper of the U. S. Communist party, has been tentatively denied a passport to cover the Big Four meeting in Geneva. Alan Max, managing editor of The Worker, announced yesterday that newsman Joseph Clark's passport application had been "tentatively refused." This was later confirmed by Ashey Nicholas of the State Department's passport office in Washington. He said Clark can appeal the rejection at a hearing before the passport division. In announcing the passport denial, Max declared that "barring the Daily Worker from covering the Big Four meeting would be a wanton violation of freedom of the press and detrimental to the best interests of our country."

Painful Demonstration

Houston, Tex. (AP)—While city councilman Shirley Brakefield, an advocate of more police, was at a council meeting, someone ransacked his parked car.

Would Bomb Reds

Taipei, Formosa, June 29 (AP)—A Nationalist Chinese clamor to bomb Communist air bases along the mainland coast developed here today. The English-language China News said Nationalist air force pilots were fretful because they are restrained from blasting the bases opposite Formosa. Presumably it was from the newest and biggest of these bases that the Reds launched attacks by Soviet-built MIGs on Monday. The MIGs shot down a Nationalist jet plane and damaged a civilian flying boat. The Hsin Sheng Pao, mouthpiece of the Formosa provincial government, urged the American air forces to "destroy the enemy's seaboard air bases." Several papers said Monday's attacks signaled a possible early invasion of the offshore islands.

WORLD'S LARGEST FRYING PAN—A thousand broiler halves will be cooked at a time in this 75-foot, 36-burner frying pan for poultrymen attending the New York State Poultrymen's Get-Together on July 12 and 13 at Cornell.

Poultrymen to See Thousand Broilers Cooked at Once

Ulster county poultrymen attending the Poultrymen's Get-Together at Cornell July 12 and 13 will see 1,000 broiler halves cooked at a time in the world's largest frying pan, according to Robert D. Guzewich, associate county agricultural agent.

The frying pan measures over 15 feet in diameter and is heated by gas burners large enough to heat 36 average homes. Duncan Hines, famous food expert, will add his approval to the chicken cookery.

The two-day event will cover a wide variety of topics interesting to turkey growers, commercial egg producers, and broiler raisers.

FOUR SUBJECTS will be highlighted this year: Housing, disease, the New York random sample test and the laying flock of the future, Mr. Guzewich said.

Dr. George Jaap of Ohio State University will serve as panel leader to discuss the laying flock of the future. Other members of the panel will include Dr. E. F. Godfrey of Mt. Hope Farms, Williamstown, Mass., Martin Schabkegel, Lakewood, N. J., and Robert Wallace, Doylestown, Pa.

Detailed programs are available from Mr. Guzewich, 74 John street, Kingston.

Pioneers of TV Shows Back Now As Replacements

New York, June 29 (AP)—It's old home week in television.

Summer replacement schedules are bringing back people and programs missing from the air for weeks and, in some cases, months.

Last night, for example, there was the old reliable combination of Bill Cullen and Place the Face on NBC. And Monday night it was Julius La Rosa, seen mostly on a guest basis since his firing by Arthur Godfrey late in 1953, starting as a regular on CBS' early evening musical show.

THE PERENNIAL Arthur Murray party came back on NBC last night to add to the air of nostalgia.

There are more to come. The half-hour dramatic show entitled Cameo, introduced in 1950 and acclaimed by critics for its innovations and excellence returns to NBC Sunday night for an eight-week season. Albert McCleery, pioneer of the arena style presentation in theatre and TV and more lately producer of Hall of Fame, will be back at the helm.

One of the real pioneer programs of TV, Mike Stokey's Pantomine Quiz, adds another chapter to its hectic career with a return to CBS July 8 as summer replacement for Mama. Stokey began Pantomine Quiz as a local show over CBS' KNXT in Hollywood and film recordings were telecast to the eastern half of the country. Then he moved it to New York and switched to Du Mont, and it subsequently had a run on ABC. Now it's coming back on CBS, on a live basis.

SATURDAY NIGHT was a prevue of things to come. There was the ample and familiar figure of Paul Whiteman as emcee on Greatest Bands of America, Jackie Gleason's CBS summer replacement. And on NBC, Dunninger began a new program featuring his mystifying mental feats of the type he did for TV audiences several seasons ago. George Gobel, in his last show before summer vacation, added another touch of nostalgia by bringing on the adult Spanky MacFarland who, as a child, was a star of the ancient Our Gang kid comedies now enjoying a revival on TV.

Familiar but not so welcome to many viewers are the reruns that are getting into full swing. Ralph Edwards' This Is Your Life goes on a rerun basis tonight and Groucho Marx tomorrow night, while the Bob Cummings Show begins repeats Sunday night. On Tuesday night Summer Theatre begins rerunning the past season's Fireside Theatre films.

Despite the TV networks' publicity releases on how this summer's fare is to be of winter season caliber, they are following the same old patterns of replacements and reruns. Some are pretty good, some are fair, and many are downright dull.

Jurors Pay Honor To T. J. Hanlon

A memorial, in the form of resolutions, was adopted by members of the Ulster County Grand Jurors' Association this week in honor of the late Thomas J. Hanlon, former superintendent of the Napanoch Institution for Male Defective Delinquents.

Prepared by Edwin W. Ashby, Ulster county commissioner of jurors and Fred Baumgarten, the jurors will forward a copy of the resolutions to the widow of the former institutional superintendent.

The resolutions, as adopted by the jurors, paid particular tribute to Mr. Hanlon's membership in the association and to his record as one of the foremost penologists in New York state.

A copy of the resolutions, signed by Thomas J. Murphy, president and Anne M. Ashdown, secretary, will be included in future records of the association.

Ralph Edwards' This Is Your Life goes on a rerun basis tonight and Groucho Marx tomorrow night, while the Bob Cummings Show begins repeats Sunday night. On Tuesday night Summer Theatre begins rerunning the past season's Fireside Theatre films.

Despite the TV networks' publicity releases on how this summer's fare is to be of winter season caliber, they are following the same old patterns of replacements and reruns. Some are pretty good, some are fair, and many are downright dull.

Jurors Pay Honor To T. J. Hanlon

A memorial, in the form of resolutions, was adopted by members of the Ulster County Grand Jurors' Association this week in honor of the late Thomas J. Hanlon, former superintendent of the Napanoch Institution for Male Defective Delinquents.

Prepared by Edwin W. Ashby, Ulster county commissioner of jurors and Fred Baumgarten, the jurors will forward a copy of the resolutions to the widow of the former institutional superintendent.

The resolutions, as adopted by the jurors, paid particular tribute to Mr. Hanlon's membership in the association and to his record as one of the foremost penologists in New York state.

A copy of the resolutions, signed by Thomas J. Murphy, president and Anne M. Ashdown, secretary, will be included in future records of the association.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Entry Robber Defeats South

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

East took a serious risk when he bid one no-trump in today's hand. Game was remote, with a silent partner and two bidding opponents, but the chance of being doubled and badly beaten was not at all remote.

As events turned out, however, East landed on his feet. North couldn't stand the double of one no-trump, and the upshot was that South played the hand at two no-trump.

West had nothing to establish in his own hand, so he led a club in the hope of finding a good suit in his partner's hand. East won with the ace of clubs and resisted the temptation to return another club blindly.

The bidding made it seem very likely that South had a very good diamond suit and only a singleton spade. East therefore returned the three of spades at the second trick.

West captured the queen with the king of spades and saw that the key to a good defense might well depend on getting three spades tricks. If West made the conventional return of his higher spade, the nine, dummy would play the ten. Whether or not East then took the ace, it would be unsafe for the defenders to lead spades again unless West could lead the suit. Since West was never going to regain the lead, this plan wouldn't work.

West decided to rely on declarer's ignorance, and he returned the six of spades instead of the nine South couldn't afford to play low from the dummy since he didn't know where the nine of spades was. When dummy put up the ten of spades it was easy for East to win with the ace and confirm his impression about the spade suit.

East now returned a club to put South in his own hand. Declarer had to lead the diamonds, giving East the queen. Now East could afford to lead a low spade, and West's nine forced out the jack. East was now ready to take the ace of hearts and the established eight of spades to defeat the contract.

Remember this picture? This is Gulf's famous burner demonstration—proof of what a difference Gulf super-refining makes. Molotov Wants to Return, Had Wonderful Time Here

(Editor's note—Foreign Minister Molotov of the Soviet Union has done something that most Americans haven't done—gone twice across this country by train. Traveling on the same train, both ways, was Francis W. Carpenter, AP reporter at United Nations—the only reporter making the trip. In this story, Carpenter gives some sidelights of Molotov's travel to and from the United Nations' 10th anniversary celebration.)

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

United Nations, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—Comrade tourist V. M. Molotov had a wonderful time in the United States. He wants to make another visit some time.

The Soviet foreign minister booked passage homeward today aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth after traveling to San Francisco and back by train. He looked happier than when he reached this country two weeks ago for the 10th anniversary celebration of the United Nations.

The 65-year-old Bolshevik ought to have been happy.

HE WAS the lion of the hour at parties in San Francisco. Once, a middle-aged lady surprised even Molotov by bowing and kissing his hand at the reception given by Secretary of State Dulles.

He got a 10-gallon hat at Cheyenne, Wyo., as a souvenir of the wild west. That hat, too small for him, is in his baggage en route to Moscow. He was as tickled as a boy getting his first Davy Crockett hat.

He saw mile after mile of the United States. He would not comment on any one feature but he did say "it is an interesting trip."

MOLOTOV WAS a pretty good tourist as far as the trainmen and porters and waiters were concerned. He tipped the waiters and porters adequately. He never asked services that the trains did not provide for others. He just sat back, took off his coat in his drawing room and saw America in his shirtsleeves.

He didn't loaf all the time. At Cheyenne on the way home, he sent the telegraph people seven pags of massages for Moscow, written in figures in code.

Molotov's eating habits fascinated those who served him on the train. He ate twice in the public diners and the rest of the time in his drawing room. The dining car waiter took the food to the room and a maid served it. She served his meals on a table cloth Molotov brought along. He ate from Russian dishes and used Russian silverware. He used none of the dishes or silver taken in by the waiter.

HE WAS a sucker for mountain trout so George B. Reid of San Jose Calif., steward on the Union Pacific dining car of the "City of San Francisco," eastbound, stocked up.

Here is a typical day in the gastronomic career of Molotov, on last Sunday, June 26, UN Charter Day:

Breakfast: (Eaten while crossing the Great Salt Lake—Oatmeal, ham and two eggs sunny side up, potatoes, toast, strawberry preserves and coffee.

Lunch (in Wyoming)—Chef's salad bowl, mountain trout, casserole of beef, rolls, tea, milk, and toast.

Dinner (east of Cheyenne)—Fruit cup, vegetable soup, mountain trout, breasts of chicken, potatoes, corn, salad bowl with raw cabbage, toast, strawberries and whipped cream, and milk.

HE SAW corn in Iowa, some of it more than knee high. He can tell the Russian farmers who plan to visit Iowa that the crop looks good. He said he liked Chicago. That city was the only place to give him boos but some balts demonstrated in Omaha and San Francisco as well. He ignored them.

The trip seemed to have done him good. His color is good and his skin white without any trace of sun-tan. His eyes are brown and they reflected calm as the trip progressed. He smiled more often. His mustache was close-cropped as usual.

HE USED to wear glasses all the time but on this trip he took off his glasses to read his speech in San Francisco and whenever a camera was pointed at him.

He walked and talked in San Francisco with an air of assurance belying reports he is on the way out.

He appears to be going to the dark rooms of the Kremlin much the better for breathing good American air.

Sentenced to Life

Lake Butler, Fla., June 29 (AP)—Hard, dangerous George A. Heroux Jr. has been sentenced to spend the rest of his life in Florida state prison where he killed the assistant superintendent in an attempted break. A 12-man jury convicted him of first degree murder yesterday but recommended mercy. The state had sought his death for the killing of J. C. Godwin, 56, last April. Heroux, 25, seemed dazed at the verdict. He told Circuit Judge George L. Patten he had nothing to say before sentence was passed.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Mr. Reuther's guaranteed annual wage calls for setting up a "reserve" which, in the case of the big auto companies, would run into tens of millions of dollars — in the case of Ford, $55,000,000.

Mr. Hutton

Would not this "reserve" have to be cashable on demand — probably in Government bonds? It would be "frozen" money, not at work building cars or creating wealth.

Maybe the industrial giants can stand the gaff — for a while, although this is doubtful. But what about the smaller companies, and especially businesses starting up?

What about the thousands of companies that supply Ford, General Motors and Chrysler? Could they put millions into a "deep freeze" and continue to grow and employ more men.

To keep their men at work, and thus prevent the fund from being exhausted, the giants would do work in their own shops that they are now contracting out to thousands of other companies. What does this do to the jobs in these other companies?

If there is a lay-off among the giants, the men with little experience will be the first to go. How about the high seniority workers who stay on the job and in one way or another will be obliged to support the low seniority men who will be getting nearly full pay for doing nothing?

Molotov Wants to Return, Had Wonderful Time Here

(Editor's note—Foreign Minister Molotov of the Soviet Union has done something that most Americans haven't done—gone twice across this country by train. Traveling on the same train, both ways, was Francis W. Carpenter, AP reporter at United Nations—the only reporter making the trip. In this story, Carpenter gives some sidelights of Molotov's travel to and from the United Nations' 10th anniversary celebration.)

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

United Nations, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—Comrade tourist V. M. Molotov had a wonderful time in the United States. He wants to make another visit some time.

The Soviet foreign minister booked passage homeward today aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth after traveling to San Francisco and back by train. He looked happier than when he reached this country two weeks ago for the 10th anniversary celebration of the United Nations.

Plans Call for 10,000 More Hospital Beds

Bolton Landing, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—The State Public Works Department plans this year to seek bids on 70 million dollars worth of mental hospital construction, Superintendent John W. Johnson says.

Johnson said yesterday that the building program would add 10,000 beds to present facilities. It will be financed from a 350-million-dollar bond issue approved by the voters last year.

The superintendent addressed delegates to the New York State Building Industry Employers Assn. convention. The three-day meeting ended today.

Two Absolved

New York, June 29 (AP)—Charges have been dismissed for two of five men who had been accused of failing to pay $17,400,000 in income taxes on complex wartime whiskey dealings. It is the largest income tax claim ever prosecuted. Cleared by the dismissal of four counts yesterday were Irving Koerner of Great Neck, N. Y., and Albert Roer of Brooklyn. Still under indictment in a trial before Federal Judge Sidney Sugarman are Hyman H. Klein of Los Angeles and two lawyers, Morris Alperin of Brooklyn and Murice Haas of Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

AN UNWILLING GODFATHER

A reader tells me: "My husband was asked to be the godfather, by proxy, for the child of a second cousin of mine. These people live quite a distance from us and we seldom see them, although we are very friendly with his mother who lives in our city. My husband does not particularly want to accept this position and I would like to know if he could possibly decline without causing hurt feelings. I would like to know also if it is obligatory for a godparent to remember a godchild every year on his (or her) birthday by sending a present."

Your husband could explain to the new parents that as he lives so far away from the child he is afraid that he will not be able to properly fulfill the responsibilities of a godfather. But even if he accepts, he will be under no obligation to send yearly presents to his godchild.

A Present for a New House

Dear Mrs. Post: A couple we know have recently bought a new house and my husband and I have been invited to go out to see it next week. I would like to know if I am supposed to take a present for their house. This friend and I are not in the habit of exhcanging presents, but somehow I feel that a present is customary in this instance. Will you please advise me?

Answer: There is no necessity for you to take a present. Possibly you may see something that is missing from their house that you can afford to get for them and, if so, it would be a kind gesture on your part to do so.

When He Does Not Smoke

Dear Mrs. Post: I do not smoke, but occasionally go out with a girl who does. I would like to know if I am supposed to light her cigarette for her, or does she light her own?

Answer: It is not necessary that you light her cigarette, but if you have a lighter or matches, it is polite for you to do so.

* * *

Should table linen be monogrammed, and if so, where should it be placed? This and many other suggestions on the types of linen for various occasions are included in Mrs. Post's leaflet E-32, "Table Linens." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Lucas Ave. Pool Open for Season

Twin Lakes Mountain House, Lucas avenue, extension, has opened its swimming pool for the season. The pool completed last year is one of the most modern type with the water being aerated and filtered. During the summer season the management will make available to Kingston residents a limited number of season tickets. By limiting the tickets the semi-private status of the facilities will be maintained. There will be dancing and a Hollywood atmosphere prevails with umbrellas and park-like surroundings. The pavilion is inlaid with slate and native bluestone and the pool surrounded by a fence.

The summer program will get under way this week. During the long Fourth of July weekend there will be a band, beginning July 2. Residents of Kingston are welcome to the resort.

Painter of Popes Dies

Rome, June 29 (AP) — Giorgio Szoldaties, known as "The Painter of the Popes," died yesterday at the age of 82. Born in Rome of Hungarian origin, Szoldaties exhibited in outstanding galleries of Europe and America. He had done portraits of Pope Pius XI and the present pontiff, Pius XII.

Brownie Troop 17 Entertains Mothers

A mother and daughter banquet was held June 21 at Ulster Hose Company No. 5 firehouse by Brownie Troop 17.

The troop, under the guidance of Mrs. Albert Klinchusky, leader and Mrs. Walter Burger, assistant leader, prepared and served a spaghetti dinner for their mothers.

Karen Boice, Carol Knapp, Pamela Hotaling, Maureen Johnson, Jo Anne Healey and Janet Burger entertained with dancing accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Diehl. Sandra DePaola offered various selections on the accordion.

The annual picnic was held June 28 which closed the activities of the troop until September.

She's 105 Sunday

Richfield Springs, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—Mrs. Lucy Rogers Smith, who recalls seeing her father leave for duty in the Civil War, will celebrate her 105th birthday on Sunday. "Grandma" Smith, as she is known to local residents, enjoys keeping up with current events and during both World Wars she knitted for service men. Her husband, George W. Smith, died in 1911. President and Mrs. Eisenhower sent her a birthday greeting.

For traveling Mrs. Lawatsch wore a pink linen suit with pink and charcoal accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The couple will make their future home in Sunnybrook Park, Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Lawatsch was graduated from Kingston High School, the New York State University of Agriculture and Home Economics and will receive her BS degree from New Paltz State Teachers College in January. She is a member of the Alpha Sigma Delta Sorority.

Smart people are switching to SWIV Shampoo because leading beauticians are using and recommending it - - - and why is SWIV creating such excitement among so many people — because it's REALLY something different and it's made right here in Kingston.

You see, after 5½ years development, local research chemists have perfected SWIV Shampoo which contains a new and revolutionary conditioner called Lustrezol. This new conditioner, like lanolin, is made from wool grease . . . but unlike lanolin, Lustrezol is very PURE—in fact so pure it dissolves in water.

Lustrezol keeps your hair soft and silky smooth—never leaves a sticky deposit - - - and because it's so pure, SWIV has greater conditioning action than ever before possible. As a result, you'll have hair which will be very manageable — right from the time it's shampooed . . . and what luster—WOW!

SWIV Shampoo for normal, dry and oily hair is available in all drugstores and leading beauty shops in the Kingston area.

Plans Call for 10,000 More Hospital Beds

Bolton Landing, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—The State Public Works Department plans this year to seek bids on 70 million dollars worth of mental hospital construction, Superintendent John W. Johnson says.

Johnson said yesterday that the building program would add 10,000 beds to present facilities. It will be financed from a 350-million-dollar bond issue approved by the voters last year.

The superintendent addressed delegates to the New York State Building Industry Employers Assn. convention. The three-day meeting ended today.

Two Absolved

New York, June 29 (AP)—Charges have been dismissed for two of five men who had been accused of failing to pay $17,400,000 in income taxes on complex wartime whiskey dealings. It is the largest income tax claim ever prosecuted. Cleared by the dismissal of four counts yesterday were Irving Koerner of Great Neck, N. Y., and Albert Roer of Brooklyn. Still under indictment in a trial before Federal Judge Sidney Sugarman are Hyman H. Klein of Los Angeles and two lawyers, Morris Alperin of Brooklyn and Murice Haas of Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

AN UNWILLING GODFATHER

A reader tells me: "My husband was asked to be the godfather, by proxy, for the child of a second cousin of mine. These people live quite a distance from us and we seldom see them, although we are very friendly with his mother who lives in our city. My husband does not particularly want to accept this position and I would like to know if he could possibly decline without causing hurt feelings. I would like to know also if it is obligatory for a godparent to remember a godchild every year on his (or her) birthday by sending a present."

Your husband could explain to the new parents that as he lives so far away from the child he is afraid that he will not be able to properly fulfill the responsibilities of a godfather. But even if he accepts, he will be under no obligation to send yearly presents to his godchild.

A Present for a New House

Dear Mrs. Post: A couple we know have recently bought a new house and my husband and I have been invited to go out to see it next week. I would like to know if I am supposed to take a present for their house. This friend and I are not in the habit of exhcanging presents, but somehow I feel that a present is customary in this instance. Will you please advise me?

Answer: There is no necessity for you to take a present. Possibly you may see something that is missing from their house that you can afford to get for them and, if so, it would be a kind gesture on your part to do so.

When He Does Not Smoke

Dear Mrs. Post: I do not smoke, but occasionally go out with a girl who does. I would like to know if I am supposed to light her cigarette for her, or does she light her own?

Answer: It is not necessary that you light her cigarette, but if you have a lighter or matches, it is polite for you to do so.

Lucas Ave. Pool Open for Season

Twin Lakes Mountain House, Lucas avenue, extension, has opened its swimming pool for the season. The pool completed last year is one of the most modern type with the water being aerated and filtered. During the summer season the management will make available to Kingston residents a limited number of season tickets. By limiting the tickets the semi-private status of the facilities will be maintained. There will be dancing and a Hollywood atmosphere prevails with umbrellas and park-like surroundings. The pavilion is inlaid with slate and native bluestone and the pool surrounded by a fence.

The summer program will get under way this week. During the long Fourth of July weekend there will be a band, beginning July 2. Residents of Kingston are welcome to the resort.

Painter of Popes Dies

Rome, June 29 (AP) — Giorgio Szoldaties, known as "The Painter of the Popes," died yesterday at the age of 82. Born in Rome of Hungarian origin, Szoldaties exhibited in outstanding galleries of Europe and America. He had done portraits of Pope Pius XI and the present pontiff, Pius XII.

Brownie Troop 17 Entertains Mothers

A mother and daughter banquet was held June 21 at Ulster Hose Company No. 5 firehouse by Brownie Troop 17.

The troop, under the guidance of Mrs. Albert Klinchusky, leader and Mrs. Walter Burger, assistant leader, prepared and served a spaghetti dinner for their mothers.

Karen Boice, Carol Knapp, Pamela Hotaling, Maureen Johnson, Jo Anne Healey and Janet Burger entertained with dancing accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Diehl. Sandra DePaola offered various selections on the accordion.

The annual picnic was held June 28 which closed the activities of the troop until September.

She's 105 Sunday

Richfield Springs, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—Mrs. Lucy Rogers Smith, who recalls seeing her father leave for duty in the Civil War, will celebrate her 105th birthday on Sunday. "Grandma" Smith, as she is known to local residents, enjoys keeping up with current events and during both World Wars she knitted for service men. Her husband, George W. Smith, died in 1911. President and Mrs. Eisenhower sent her a birthday greeting.

Would Safeguard Against Pressure In Political Funds

Lake George, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—The Republican state chairman says legal safeguards are needed to protect working men and women from pressure to make political campaign contributions.

L. Judson Morhouse contended last night that workers faced pressure "sometimes akin to extortion" if they refused to make contributions that did not necessarily reflect their own personal views.

A GOP source said Morhouse was referring to what the source termed "the practices of labor unions" in raising political-action funds.

Morhouse, addressing the summer meeting of the Election Commissioners Assn. of New York State, asserted:

"NO PERSON, it seems to me, should be required to contribute to a political war chest unless he is told specifically for what purpose or for whose support the money will be spent.

The GOP leader also voiced support of recent proposals to increase the maximum amount national political committees may spend in election campaigns. Federal law sets a limit of three million dollars.

He predicted that 100 million persons would be eligible to vote in next year's presidential election. He urged an all-out effort to get 75 million voters to go to the polls. About 61½ million voted in the 1952 presidential election.

WILLIAM F. FLYNN of Mount Morris was elected president of the association. Other officers included:

William H. Morgan of Cortland, first vice president; Vincent Varney of Wilton, second vice president, and Joseph E. Morahan of Yonkers, secretary-treasurer.

Walter A. Bliss of Oneonta was chosen chairman of the executive committee, James F. Denn of Albany was named chairman of the 1956 convention committee and William D. Miesh of Mineola was elected legislative committee chairman.

Nation Is Facing

the federal mediator, said separate union-management meetings are continuing.

"WE HAVE been exploring the situation at individual meetings today (Tuesday) and haven't been able to find a basis for a joint meeting but we will continue," he said.

A joint bargaining committee representing eight unions and 4,500 Utah employes is negotiating at Salt Lake City with officials of the Kennecott Copper Corp. Commissioner Ralph R. Williams of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service is sitting in on talks there.

Williams Concluded Tuesday's session with the remark: "We are still negotiating." He did not elaborate.

The outlook was similarly gloomy at San Francisco, in talks involving the Mine-Mill Union and American Smelting & Refining Co., and at Douglas, Ariz., where local union committees are negotiating with Phelps-Dodge Corp.

NEGOTIATIONS between the Mine-Mill Union and three plants of the American Brass Co., an Anaconda subsidiary, are in progress in Ansonia and Torrington, Conn., and Buffalo, N. Y., involving a total of about 4,000 workers.

They too threaten a strike at midnight Thursday unless demands for a 25-cents-an-hour wage boost are met. The company stuck by its 10-cents-an-hour offer yesterday in negotiations at Ansonia.

The starting wage is $1.63 an hour.

Fattarino Arrested

Anthony Fattarino, 22, of 38 East Strand, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer Julius Glassman on a warrant charging third degree assault. The complainant was listed as his wife, Joan Fattarino. City Judge Raymond J. Mino today adjourned the case until Thursday to allow him time to obtain counsel. Attorney Thomas F. Saccoman appeared for the district attorney's office.

Boat Missing

Sam Romano, of 136 Clifton avenue, notified police at 7:48 p. m., yesterday that a flat-bottomed rowboat, which had been moored near the old lagoon bridge in the former Kingston Point Park area, was missing. It had a newly boarded bottom, he said, and is valued at $35.

Republican ticket and there appear to be numerous aspirants for that office on the Democratic ticket. At a recent public gathering former Mayor William F. Edelmuth was mentioned by a leading Democrat as "our next mayor", however there apparently are others seeking the nod.

With Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly declining to be designated by the Republicans for another term because of business reasons, the Republicans will present another candidate for that office.

Former District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn appears to be the Republican choice for county judge, Howard C. St. John appears to be unopposed for district attorney but for county treasurer there are at least two active candidates in the Republican party, Supervisors Albert N. Cook of Kingston and Frank G. Elliott of New Paltz. The Democrats have not disclosed any choice as yet.

Campy Enters Probe

New York, June 29 (AP)—The name of Roy Campanella, star catcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, entered a State Liquor Authority investigation today. The New York Journal American said Campanella, owner of a Harlem liquor store, would be questioned by investigators who contend SLA agents took bribes from owners of bars and package stores. The newspaper said Campanella will be called before J. Erwin Shapiro, state investigation commissioner, and asked to produce the books and records of his store.

projects undertaken by you."

In a letter of June 22 Mr. Kalish had advised the mayor that "due to business pressures and other activities it will be impossible for me to accept another appointment to the board of education. I have enjoyed serving these past five years and feel that another citizen should be given the opportunity."

AT A MEETING of the board of education yesterday afternoon Mr. Kalish said it had been a pleasure to work with its members and to serve the community. He said he foresees educational problems of increasing severity as the city continues to grow but felt confident the board would meet any challenge effectively.

Addressing President Robert Herzog he said, "Mr. President, it's been a pleasure to work with you."

"Thank you, Dick," Mr. Herzog replied, "and it's been a pleasure working with you."

DURING his service with the board Mr. Kalish has served, at different times, as chairman of the building committee, athletic committee, insurance committee and supplies committee.

As one of his last official acts Mr. Kalish, pointing out that the city was installing parking meters in front of Kingston Hospital, asked if nurses might be permitted to use a "section" of the high school parking grounds during the summer until a special parking lot could be found for their use. Permission was granted.

The Gannett report said State GOP Chairman L. Judson Morhouse and the GOP state committee apparently have been unable so far to narrow their recommendations to a single choice.

It was indicated that Senator Ives urges that the appointment go to an upstate man.

Would Safeguard Against Pressure In Political Funds

Lake George, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—The Republican state chairman says legal safeguards are needed to protect working men and women from pressure to make political campaign contributions.

L. Judson Morhouse contended last night that workers faced pressure "sometimes akin to extortion" if they refused to make contributions that did not necessarily reflect their own personal views.

A GOP source said Morhouse was referring to what the source termed "the practices of labor unions" in raising political-action funds.

Morhouse, addressing the summer meeting of the Election Commissioners Assn. of New York State, asserted:

"NO PERSON, it seems to me, should be required to contribute to a political war chest unless he is told specifically for what purpose or for whose support the money will be spent.

The GOP leader also voiced support of recent proposals to increase the maximum amount national political committees may spend in election campaigns. Federal law sets a limit of three million dollars.

He predicted that 100 million persons would be eligible to vote in next year's presidential election. He urged an all-out effort to get 75 million voters to go to the polls. About 61½ million voted in the 1952 presidential election.

WILLIAM F. FLYNN of Mount Morris was elected president of the association. Other officers included:

William H. Morgan of Cortland, first vice president; Vincent Varney of Wilton, second vice president, and Joseph E. Morahan of Yonkers, secretary-treasurer.

Walter A. Bliss of Oneonta was chosen chairman of the executive committee, James F. Denn of Albany was named chairman of the 1956 convention committee and William D. Miesh of Mineola was elected legislative committee chairman.

the federal mediator, said separate union-management meetings are continuing.

"WE HAVE been exploring the situation at individual meetings today (Tuesday) and haven't been able to find a basis for a joint meeting but we will continue," he said.

A joint bargaining committee representing eight unions and 4,500 Utah employes is negotiating at Salt Lake City with officials of the Kennecott Copper Corp. Commissioner Ralph R. Williams of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service is sitting in on talks there.

Williams Concluded Tuesday's session with the remark: "We are still negotiating." He did not elaborate.

The outlook was similarly gloomy at San Francisco, in talks involving the Mine-Mill Union and American Smelting & Refining Co., and at Douglas, Ariz., where local union committees are negotiating with Phelps-Dodge Corp.

NEGOTIATIONS between the Mine-Mill Union and three plants of the American Brass Co., an Anaconda subsidiary, are in progress in Ansonia and Torrington, Conn., and Buffalo, N. Y., involving a total of about 4,000 workers.

They too threaten a strike at midnight Thursday unless demands for a 25-cents-an-hour wage boost are met. The company stuck by its 10-cents-an-hour offer yesterday in negotiations at Ansonia.

The starting wage is $1.63 an hour.

Anthony Fattarino, 22, of 38 East Strand, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer Julius Glassman on a warrant charging third degree assault. The complainant was listed as his wife, Joan Fattarino. City Judge Raymond J. Mino today adjourned the case until Thursday to allow him time to obtain counsel. Attorney Thomas F. Saccoman appeared for the district attorney's office.

Republican ticket and there appear to be numerous aspirants for that office on the Democratic ticket. At a recent public gathering former Mayor William F. Edelmuth was mentioned by a leading Democrat as "our next mayor", however there apparently are others seeking the nod.

With Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly declining to be designated by the Republicans for another term because of business reasons, the Republicans will present another candidate for that office.

Former District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn appears to be the Republican choice for county judge, Howard C. St. John appears to be unopposed for district attorney but for county treasurer there are at least two active candidates in the Republican party, Supervisors Albert N. Cook of Kingston and Frank G. Elliott of New Paltz. The Democrats have not disclosed any choice as yet.

Campy Enters Probe

New York, June 29 (AP)—The name of Roy Campanella, star catcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, entered a State Liquor Authority investigation today. The New York Journal American said Campanella, owner of a Harlem liquor store, would be questioned by investigators who contend SLA agents took bribes from owners of bars and package stores. The newspaper said Campanella will be called before J. Erwin Shapiro, state investigation commissioner, and asked to produce the books and records of his store.

projects undertaken by you."

In a letter of June 22 Mr. Kalish had advised the mayor that "due to business pressures and other activities it will be impossible for me to accept another appointment to the board of education. I have enjoyed serving these past five years and feel that another citizen should be given the opportunity."

AT A MEETING of the board of education yesterday afternoon Mr. Kalish said it had been a pleasure to work with its members and to serve the community. He said he foresees educational problems of increasing severity as the city continues to grow but felt confident the board would meet any challenge effectively.

Addressing President Robert Herzog he said, "Mr. President, it's been a pleasure to work with you."

"Thank you, Dick," Mr. Herzog replied, "and it's been a pleasure working with you."

DURING his service with the board Mr. Kalish has served, at different times, as chairman of the building committee, athletic committee, insurance committee and supplies committee.

As one of his last official acts Mr. Kalish, pointing out that the city was installing parking meters in front of Kingston Hospital, asked if nurses might be permitted to use a "section" of the high school parking grounds during the summer until a special parking lot could be found for their use. Permission was granted.

Camp Probe Is Moved Ahead

Floral Park, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—State Sen. Edward P. Larkin (R.-Nassau) has set July 8 as the meeting date of his joint legislative committee on charitable and philanthropic organizations to discuss the problem of Communist infiltration of summer camps in the state.

The meeting had been originally scheduled for July 13, but Gov. Averell Harriman had criticized this on the grounds that children planning to attend summer camps already would have made reservations by then.

IN ANNOUNCING the new date last night, Larkin also said that Harriman has "ready access" to much information about any Communist-tinged summer camps.

"Gov. Harriman, in his new role of seeker of information about Communist infiltration, has only to inquire from his commissioner of commerce the names of these camps and their directors who have refused to sign non-Communist affidavits," Larkin said in a statement at his home in this Long Island community.

"He can then issue a list of all those who refused to take loyalty oaths or declined to register with the State Department of Commerce for one reason or another.

"Gov. Harriman had ready access to these names and to much other information about operators of shadowy outfits which our committee believes to be Communist youth training centers masquerading as legitimate American summer camps for boys and girls."

REGISTRATION of summer camps with the State Department of Commerce is voluntary. It entitles the camp to be listed in the department's directory of summer camps.

However, in order to be listed, camp directors or managers are required to sign a non-Communist oath.

Congress Is Urged To Extend Seaway

Albany, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—The state commerce commissioner today urged Congress to extend the St. Lawrence Seaway channel through the entire Great Lakes chain.

Edward T. Dickinson said that westward extension of the 27-foot-deep channel would permit producers in the 17-state Great Lakes region to reach markets in the east at lower cost.

This, Dickinson said, would mean "added industry, employment and commercial expansion" for states in both eastern and North-central regions.

Post 11 Scout Is Presented Badge And Certificate

The newest Eagle Scout in Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, was presented with his Eagle badge and certificate at the regular monthly meeting of the executive board Tuesday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

He is Karl Rose of Post 11 sponsored by St. James Methodist Church, Kingston. The Council President, Raymond S. Quackenbush of Saugerties, presented the certificate and Richard Waltman, Explorer Adviser of Post 11, presented the Eagle Badge. Val W. Morrow, council commissioner and National Council Representative presented the council president with a citation from the National Committee on Rural Service for the outstanding overall program for Scouting in rural areas conducted in this Council during 1954. This citation is one of the 24 presented at the meeting of the National Council held in St. Louis last month.

THE ORGANIZATION and extension committee report given by George B. Matthews, chairman, showed a total of 2,420 boys in 101 units at the end of May. He also reported the registration of three new units during the past month: Pack 51 sponsored by the Windham - Ashland - Jewett P - TA; Troop 66 sponsored by the West Hurley Fire Co.; and Post 20 sponsored by the Hurley Reformed Church. Three units have been dropped from the Council roster during the past month because of the lack of leadership: Pack 33 sponsored by the Malden Methodist Church; Troop 15 sponsored by the Reformed Church of the Comforter, Kingston; and Troop 37 sponsored by the Quarryville Methodist Church.

Frank Bourke, Council camp chairman, reported reservations for camp have been slow during the past weeks but that to date a total of 285 boy-weeks have been reserved. He also reported on the additional facilities of a dish washing machine, a walk-in refrigerator, three new boats donated by the Kingston Rotary Club and the completion of the Explorer Troop-site for use this summer. He submitted in detail a conservation program to be followed during the camp season.

The Council Finance Chairman Gerald Overbagh of Quarryville presented the work done to date on the annual finance campaign and outlined the work yet to be done before the campaign gets under way July 5. He urged all scouters in all districts and communities in the two county area to get behind the campaign to assure success in raising the goal of $27,760.

THE RETIRING Council President, Raymond S. Quackenbush turned over the gavel to the new in-coming President, John A. Aalto of Ashokan. His first act was to present the retiring president with a Scout statuette in appreciation of the splendid job done over the past three years as president of the council. His next act was to present to the Scout Executive, George V. Dennis and to the Field Scout Executive, Francis W. Teel the Regional awards for 1954. These awards are leather belts with an attractive and specially designed beld buckle with the Regional Two emblem. This award is made to all staff members who have a gain in all departments or membership, reregister in excess of 80 per cent of their Units and achieve the goals established for the districts which they serve. Only 17 belts have been awarded for 1954 achievements to 17 of the 234 professional Scouters in Region 2.

It was announced that the next meeting of the Executive Board would be held at Camp Tri-Mount Tuesday, July 26.

Prendergast Seems Likely Party Leader

New York, June 29 (AP)—Michael J. Prendergast of Rockland county has been recommended by a group of key Democratic leaders for the job of New York State Democraic chairman.

The recommendation was made yesterday by 16 county chairmen to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Richard H. Balch of Utica.

The full Democratic State Committee will meet July 6 to act on the measure. Prendergast's election, however, is considered certain.

Prendergast, 41, of Haverstraw, is now Rockland county Democratic chairman. He did not attend the meeting at the Hotel Biltmore here.

Probers Say SLA 'Rotten' to Core

New York, June 29 (AP)—After months of probing the State Liquor Authority, investigators have described the agency as "rotten from top to bottom."

About 90 per cent of New York city's 7,949 bars have been victims of shakedowns of one sort or another by SLA agents, reported probers yesterday. Investigation of SLA operations was begun last February by State Investigation Commissioner J. Irwin Shapiro.

Another source of graft, they added, were bribes paid to expedite removal of liquor package stores from one location to another. The city has 2,536 package stores.

IT WAS REPORTED that one package store operator paid $75,000 in fees and bribes to get permission to move his store from one city borough to another.

The widespread graft was described yesterday after Shapiro announced that a deputy commissioner of the SLA had resigned after being subpoenaed to appear for questioning today.

The resigned official was A. Albert Fein, who had worked for the agency for 20 years. He is the eighth SLA employe to be eased out in the past two weeks and the 18th to go since the probe began.

The 18 include three members of the authority, five deputy commissioners, an assistant counsel and nine investigators. One of the deputy commissioners committed suicide and one of the investigators was dismissed.

Balch Proposes Harriman for 1956 Nomination

West Islip, June 29 (AP)—New York's Gov. Averell Harriman has been proposed for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1956 by the outgoing state Democratic chairman.

At a Long Island Democratic meeting last night Richard H. Balch, who is resigning as state chairman next week to join the State Public Service Commission, declared:

"For my own part, nothing could make me happier than to see him (Harriman) called to be our party's standard bearer in the 1956 presidential elections."

ALTHOUGH Harriman has attacked the Eisenhower administration frequently, Balch's statement was the first open suggestion that he seek the Democratic nomination next year.

Last fall, when his election as New York's governor had projected him into the limelight as a possible presidential candidate, Harriman said he favored Adlai Stevenson.

Balch said Harriman was a possibility for the nomination in 1952 but had stepped aside in favor of Stevenson.

Balch, who was national campaign manager for Harriman's bid for the nomination, said he felt then "that there was no more qualified candidate in our party's ranks."

"I need hardly add that I hold these sentiments today . . ."

Early Verdict Is Not Expected on Uniform Jury Law

An early decision on the constitutionality of the Uniform Jury Law, as amended by the 1955 Legislature, is not expected since there is no possibility of its being heard on appeal before Court of Appeals on July 6, it was disclosed yesterday.

The matter is pending before Justice Harry E. Schirick who heard a motion on June 22 under a show cause order as to why the law should not be declared unconstitutional. At that time the matter was to be submitted without additional memorandum in order to hasten the decision of Supreme Court Justice Schirick so that an appeal could be heard by the Court of Appeals on July 6 when that court meets to hand down decisions.

LATER THE attorney general was granted time to file additional memorandum when it became apparent the matter could not reach the Court of Appeals before September. The question involved the constitutionality of the law and an appeal goes directly to the Court of Appeals.

Justice Schirick said Tuesday that since additional memorandum was to be submitted and the case could not be heard by the higher court until September, there was need for a hasty decision in the matter. It is apparent that no matter which way the matter is decided by Justice Schirick the opposing party will appeal.

EDWIN C. FARRINGTON and Mrs. Helen Garry Burns of Albany seek to have the law declared unconstitutional on the grounds it violated the State Home Rule law in that it relieves counties under 100,000 population of compliance with the law which requires larger counties to put into effect the commissioner of jurors system. This makes it mandatory for only 15 of the 57 counties, outside greater New York, to comply and they hold it is in opposition to the state law. Under a 1954 law all counties except those of Greater New York were brought under the law. However, in 1955 an amendment was passed which excused counties under 100,000 population from mandatory compliance.

Ulster county, although it is under 100,000 population has been under the Commissioner of Jury system for several years and consequently will not be affected by the present test of the law no matter which way the courts hold.

Record Electrical Output Noted

New York, June 20 (AP)The nation used more electricity last week than in any week in history, Edison Electric Institute reported today.

The institute, trade association of the power companies, said electric output reached a record 10,226,000,000 kilowatt hours, topping the former high of 10,047,000,000 kilowatt hours set in the week ended Feb. 5.

INDUSTRY SOURCES attributed the latest jump in part to heavy air conditioning and refrigeration loads resulting from hot weather in some sections.

The week's record output compared with power production of 9,987,000,000 kilowatt hours the preceding week and ran 13.9 per cent ahead of the 8,981,000,000 kilowatt hours in the like week a year ago.

Factory Car Sales Top Old Record

Detroit, June 29 (AP)—Factory sales of motor vehicles in the United States from January through May this year numbered 4,096,151 units, the Automobile Manufacturers Assn. said today.

This tops the previous record for the period, which was 3,272,182 units in 1951.

THE ASSOCIATION said the five-month figures include 3,579,071 cars and 517,080 trucks and coaches, compared with 2,464,496 cars and 474,217 trucks and coaches in the comparable 1954 period.

Motor vehicle exports in the five month period this year numbered 210,233 compared with 178,066 units in 1954. The exports included 128,374 cars and 81,859 trucks and coaches in this year's first five months compared with 99,860 cars and 78,206 trucks and coaches in the comparable 1954 period.

Floral Park, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—State Sen. Edward P. Larkin (R.-Nassau) has set July 8 as the meeting date of his joint legislative committee on charitable and philanthropic organizations to discuss the problem of Communist infiltration of summer camps in the state.

The meeting had been originally scheduled for July 13, but Gov. Averell Harriman had criticized this on the grounds that children planning to attend summer camps already would have made reservations by then.

IN ANNOUNCING the new date last night, Larkin also said that Harriman has "ready access" to much information about any Communist-tinged summer camps.

"Gov. Harriman, in his new role of seeker of information about Communist infiltration, has only to inquire from his commissioner of commerce the names of these camps and their directors who have refused to sign non-Communist affidavits," Larkin said in a statement at his home in this Long Island community.

"He can then issue a list of all those who refused to take loyalty oaths or declined to register with the State Department of Commerce for one reason or another.

"Gov. Harriman had ready access to these names and to much other information about operators of shadowy outfits which our committee believes to be Communist youth training centers masquerading as legitimate American summer camps for boys and girls."

REGISTRATION of summer camps with the State Department of Commerce is voluntary. It entitles the camp to be listed in the department's directory of summer camps.

However, in order to be listed, camp directors or managers are required to sign a non-Communist oath.

Congress Is Urged To Extend Seaway

Albany, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—The state commerce commissioner today urged Congress to extend the St. Lawrence Seaway channel through the entire Great Lakes chain.

Edward T. Dickinson said that westward extension of the 27-foot-deep channel would permit producers in the 17-state Great Lakes region to reach markets in the east at lower cost.

This, Dickinson said, would mean "added industry, employment and commercial expansion" for states in both eastern and North-central regions.

Post 11 Scout Is Presented Badge And Certificate

The newest Eagle Scout in Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, was presented with his Eagle badge and certificate at the regular monthly meeting of the executive board Tuesday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

He is Karl Rose of Post 11 sponsored by St. James Methodist Church, Kingston. The Council President, Raymond S. Quackenbush of Saugerties, presented the certificate and Richard Waltman, Explorer Adviser of Post 11, presented the Eagle Badge. Val W. Morrow, council commissioner and National Council Representative presented the council president with a citation from the National Committee on Rural Service for the outstanding overall program for Scouting in rural areas conducted in this Council during 1954. This citation is one of the 24 presented at the meeting of the National Council held in St. Louis last month.

THE ORGANIZATION and extension committee report given by George B. Matthews, chairman, showed a total of 2,420 boys in 101 units at the end of May. He also reported the registration of three new units during the past month: Pack 51 sponsored by the Windham - Ashland - Jewett P - TA; Troop 66 sponsored by the West Hurley Fire Co.; and Post 20 sponsored by the Hurley Reformed Church. Three units have been dropped from the Council roster during the past month because of the lack of leadership: Pack 33 sponsored by the Malden Methodist Church; Troop 15 sponsored by the Reformed Church of the Comforter, Kingston; and Troop 37 sponsored by the Quarryville Methodist Church.

Frank Bourke, Council camp chairman, reported reservations for camp have been slow during the past weeks but that to date a total of 285 boy-weeks have been reserved. He also reported on the additional facilities of a dish washing machine, a walk-in refrigerator, three new boats donated by the Kingston Rotary Club and the completion of the Explorer Troop-site for use this summer. He submitted in detail a conservation program to be followed during the camp season.

The Council Finance Chairman Gerald Overbagh of Quarryville presented the work done to date on the annual finance campaign and outlined the work yet to be done before the campaign gets under way July 5. He urged all scouters in all districts and communities in the two county area to get behind the campaign to assure success in raising the goal of $27,760.

THE RETIRING Council President, Raymond S. Quackenbush turned over the gavel to the new in-coming President, John A. Aalto of Ashokan. His first act was to present the retiring president with a Scout statuette in appreciation of the splendid job done over the past three years as president of the council. His next act was to present to the Scout Executive, George V. Dennis and to the Field Scout Executive, Francis W. Teel the Regional awards for 1954. These awards are leather belts with an attractive and specially designed beld buckle with the Regional Two emblem. This award is made to all staff members who have a gain in all departments or membership, reregister in excess of 80 per cent of their Units and achieve the goals established for the districts which they serve. Only 17 belts have been awarded for 1954 achievements to 17 of the 234 professional Scouters in Region 2.

It was announced that the next meeting of the Executive Board would be held at Camp Tri-Mount Tuesday, July 26.

Prendergast Seems Likely Party Leader

New York, June 29 (AP)—Michael J. Prendergast of Rockland county has been recommended by a group of key Democratic leaders for the job of New York State Democraic chairman.

The recommendation was made yesterday by 16 county chairmen to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Richard H. Balch of Utica.

The full Democratic State Committee will meet July 6 to act on the measure. Prendergast's election, however, is considered certain.

Prendergast, 41, of Haverstraw, is now Rockland county Democratic chairman. He did not attend the meeting at the Hotel Biltmore here.

Probers Say SLA 'Rotten' to Core

New York, June 29 (AP)—After months of probing the State Liquor Authority, investigators have described the agency as "rotten from top to bottom."

About 90 per cent of New York city's 7,949 bars have been victims of shakedowns of one sort or another by SLA agents, reported probers yesterday. Investigation of SLA operations was begun last February by State Investigation Commissioner J. Irwin Shapiro.

Another source of graft, they added, were bribes paid to expedite removal of liquor package stores from one location to another. The city has 2,536 package stores.

IT WAS REPORTED that one package store operator paid $75,000 in fees and bribes to get permission to move his store from one city borough to another.

The widespread graft was described yesterday after Shapiro announced that a deputy commissioner of the SLA had resigned after being subpoenaed to appear for questioning today.

The resigned official was A. Albert Fein, who had worked for the agency for 20 years. He is the eighth SLA employe to be eased out in the past two weeks and the 18th to go since the probe began.

The 18 include three members of the authority, five deputy commissioners, an assistant counsel and nine investigators. One of the deputy commissioners committed suicide and one of the investigators was dismissed.

Balch Proposes Harriman for 1956 Nomination

West Islip, June 29 (AP)—New York's Gov. Averell Harriman has been proposed for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1956 by the outgoing state Democratic chairman.

At a Long Island Democratic meeting last night Richard H. Balch, who is resigning as state chairman next week to join the State Public Service Commission, declared:

"For my own part, nothing could make me happier than to see him (Harriman) called to be our party's standard bearer in the 1956 presidential elections."

ALTHOUGH Harriman has attacked the Eisenhower administration frequently, Balch's statement was the first open suggestion that he seek the Democratic nomination next year.

Last fall, when his election as New York's governor had projected him into the limelight as a possible presidential candidate, Harriman said he favored Adlai Stevenson.

Balch said Harriman was a possibility for the nomination in 1952 but had stepped aside in favor of Stevenson.

Balch, who was national campaign manager for Harriman's bid for the nomination, said he felt then "that there was no more qualified candidate in our party's ranks."

Early Verdict Is Not Expected on Uniform Jury Law

An early decision on the constitutionality of the Uniform Jury Law, as amended by the 1955 Legislature, is not expected since there is no possibility of its being heard on appeal before Court of Appeals on July 6, it was disclosed yesterday.

The matter is pending before Justice Harry E. Schirick who heard a motion on June 22 under a show cause order as to why the law should not be declared unconstitutional. At that time the matter was to be submitted without additional memorandum in order to hasten the decision of Supreme Court Justice Schirick so that an appeal could be heard by the Court of Appeals on July 6 when that court meets to hand down decisions.

LATER THE attorney general was granted time to file additional memorandum when it became apparent the matter could not reach the Court of Appeals before September. The question involved the constitutionality of the law and an appeal goes directly to the Court of Appeals.

Justice Schirick said Tuesday that since additional memorandum was to be submitted and the case could not be heard by the higher court until September, there was need for a hasty decision in the matter. It is apparent that no matter which way the matter is decided by Justice Schirick the opposing party will appeal.

EDWIN C. FARRINGTON and Mrs. Helen Garry Burns of Albany seek to have the law declared unconstitutional on the grounds it violated the State Home Rule law in that it relieves counties under 100,000 population of compliance with the law which requires larger counties to put into effect the commissioner of jurors system. This makes it mandatory for only 15 of the 57 counties, outside greater New York, to comply and they hold it is in opposition to the state law. Under a 1954 law all counties except those of Greater New York were brought under the law. However, in 1955 an amendment was passed which excused counties under 100,000 population from mandatory compliance.

Ulster county, although it is under 100,000 population has been under the Commissioner of Jury system for several years and consequently will not be affected by the present test of the law no matter which way the courts hold.

Record Electrical Output Noted

New York, June 20 (AP)The nation used more electricity last week than in any week in history, Edison Electric Institute reported today.

The institute, trade association of the power companies, said electric output reached a record 10,226,000,000 kilowatt hours, topping the former high of 10,047,000,000 kilowatt hours set in the week ended Feb. 5.

INDUSTRY SOURCES attributed the latest jump in part to heavy air conditioning and refrigeration loads resulting from hot weather in some sections.

The week's record output compared with power production of 9,987,000,000 kilowatt hours the preceding week and ran 13.9 per cent ahead of the 8,981,000,000 kilowatt hours in the like week a year ago.

Factory Car Sales Top Old Record

Detroit, June 29 (AP)—Factory sales of motor vehicles in the United States from January through May this year numbered 4,096,151 units, the Automobile Manufacturers Assn. said today.

This tops the previous record for the period, which was 3,272,182 units in 1951.

THE ASSOCIATION said the five-month figures include 3,579,071 cars and 517,080 trucks and coaches, compared with 2,464,496 cars and 474,217 trucks and coaches in the comparable 1954 period.

Motor vehicle exports in the five month period this year numbered 210,233 compared with 178,066 units in 1954. The exports included 128,374 cars and 81,859 trucks and coaches in this year's first five months compared with 99,860 cars and 78,206 trucks and coaches in the comparable 1954 period.

Two No-Hitters Open Jaycee Little League Season at Forsyth

32 Strikeouts Feature Reardon, Van Wagner Roles

Crows and Hawks Win Behind Tight Pitching

A pair of classic no-hitters opened the Jaycee Little League season, sponsored by the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce, and the two youngsters who launched this auspicious getaway with tremendous mound performances were Bill Reardon and Daniel Van Wagner.

Reardon, pitching for the Crows, shutout the Eagles, 4-0, as he struck out 16 men, while Van Wagner duplicated the strikeout performance last night with a total of 16 fanned as the Hawks defeated the Wrens, 6-4.

The Crows scored three runs in the first inning on an error, a walk and single by Don Hughes, and added another in the sixth on two bases on balls and an error.

The Wrens scored two runs in the fourth inning on a miscue and two base hits. They came up with two more in the sixth frame on three straight singles.

These superlative mound jobs would indicate that the hitters will be on starvation rations in the early part of the season.

(The Associated Press)

Frank Sullivan looks like one gent who's making a bum out of the sophomore jinx, developing into the ace of the Boston Red Sox mound staff almost overnight.

A year ago, the 25-year-old righthander was just a newcomer pulled out of the bullpen and pushed into a starting job to fill the gap left when Mel Parnell suffered a broken wrist. Now he's one of only three American League pitchers to have won 10 games this year and has a string of 23 scoreless innings working while holding the No. 1 spot of the Boxsox.

THAT'S WHERE Sullivan, 6-6½ and weighing 215, left off in 1954. He wound up his first full major league season with a 15-12 record.

And while other freshmen standouts of 1954, such as Wally Moon, Bob Grim and Art Fowler, have fallen off, Sullivan's still in their pitching—effectively. He's been beaten six times.

He kept the still hot Red Sox sizzling last night with his second straight shutout, a three-hit job on Washington for a 4-0 victory in the first game of the twinighter. His last time out, the Burbank, Calif., giant who was signed off the Southern California campus in 1948 blanked Detroit on just two hits.

SULLIVAN, who now has won six straight and tossed four consecutive complete games, got the runs he needed last night on homers by Jackie Jensen and Faye Thronberry, still subbing for the ailing Ted Williams.

In the nightcap, the Sox were held scoreless by Bob Porterfield for eight innings, then broke out for eight runs—touched off by Norm Zauchin's two-run homer—to sweep the Senators 8-2.

The two victories, moved Boston within a half game of the fourth place Detroit Tigers who whacked the Chicago White Sox 5-4 in 10 innings. Cleveland, meanwhile, moved to within two games of Chicago by defeating Kansas City 7-5.

IN THE NATIONAL, first place Brooklyn pushed the New York Giants into fifth place 6-5 while the second place Chicago Cubs beat the threatening Milwaukee Braves 7-3. Cincinnati replaced the Giants in fourth place by rapping St. Louis 9-1. And Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 7-5 in 10 innings after the Phils nailed the wrap up of a suspended April 24 game, 3-0.

Brooklyn got back into the swing of things in cracker-box Ebbets Field, belting home runs No. 98, 99 and 100 for the season after hitting just one homer in the last five games on the road. Duke Snider whacked the 100th, good for the deciding run in the eighth and giving him the major league lead with 24.

Sal Maglie, who had won eight straight, was the loser while Karl Spooner won his second with relief help from Ed Roebuck.

Thomas 2-Hits VFW As Kiwanis Wins, 9-1

Bill Thomas fashioned a neat two-hitter in the Fraternal Youth League last night, and backed up by some pretty solid hitting went on to pitch the Kiwanis to a 5-0 shutout over the VFW.

What's more, the youngster who is shadowing his father in local pitching ranks struck out nine and didn't issue a walk. Williams and Beaver collected the brace of hits, Beaver clouting a double. Hallinan trippled to deep left in the fifth frame for the Kiwanis.

Gardner, one of three VFW pitchers, was tagged with the loss, and gave up five passes during his stint. Amato issued three walks in relief.

Kiwanis clustered four runs in the second inning and bunched five more in the fifth after which the game was called because of rain.

Wilkes-Barre Club Sings Swan Song

(By The Associated Press)

Last-place Albany buried the Barons 20-8 under a 24-hit barrage.

The club meets Albany tonight and travels to Allentown Thursday as the Barons and then becomes the Johnstown Johnnies on Friday. The league directors last Sunday approved transfer of the franchise to the western Pennsylvania city.

In other action last night Binghamton whipped host Allentown 7-5 to move into a second-place tie with Reading, which lost 8-1 at Elmira. The two are 1½ lengths back of Williamsport, edged 5-4 at Schenectady on Frank Herrera's ninth-inning home run.

Two No-Hitters Open Jaycee Little League Season at Forsyth

32 Strikeouts Feature Reardon, Van Wagner Roles

Crows and Hawks Win Behind Tight Pitching

A pair of classic no-hitters opened the Jaycee Little League season, sponsored by the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce, and the two youngsters who launched this auspicious getaway with tremendous mound performances were Bill Reardon and Daniel Van Wagner.

Reardon, pitching for the Crows, shutout the Eagles, 4-0, as he struck out 16 men, while Van Wagner duplicated the strikeout performance last night with a total of 16 fanned as the Hawks defeated the Wrens, 6-4.

The Crows scored three runs in the first inning on an error, a walk and single by Don Hughes, and added another in the sixth on two bases on balls and an error.

The Wrens scored two runs in the fourth inning on a miscue and two base hits. They came up with two more in the sixth frame on three straight singles.

These superlative mound jobs would indicate that the hitters will be on starvation rations in the early part of the season.

THE SCOREBOARD

R H E 4 3 1 0

(The Associated Press)

Frank Sullivan looks like one gent who's making a bum out of the sophomore jinx, developing into the ace of the Boston Red Sox mound staff almost overnight.

A year ago, the 25-year-old righthander was just a newcomer pulled out of the bullpen and pushed into a starting job to fill the gap left when Mel Parnell suffered a broken wrist. Now he's one of only three American League pitchers to have won 10 games this year and has a string of 23 scoreless innings working while holding the No. 1 spot of the Boxsox.

THAT'S WHERE Sullivan, 6-6½ and weighing 215, left off in 1954. He wound up his first full major league season with a 15-12 record.

And while other freshmen standouts of 1954, such as Wally Moon, Bob Grim and Art Fowler, have fallen off, Sullivan's still in their pitching—effectively. He's been beaten six times.

He kept the still hot Red Sox sizzling last night with his second straight shutout, a three-hit job on Washington for a 4-0 victory in the first game of the twinighter. His last time out, the Burbank, Calif., giant who was signed off the Southern California campus in 1948 blanked Detroit on just two hits.

SULLIVAN, who now has won six straight and tossed four consecutive complete games, got the runs he needed last night on homers by Jackie Jensen and Faye Thronberry, still subbing for the ailing Ted Williams.

In the nightcap, the Sox were held scoreless by Bob Porterfield for eight innings, then broke out for eight runs—touched off by Norm Zauchin's two-run homer—to sweep the Senators 8-2.

The two victories, moved Boston within a half game of the fourth place Detroit Tigers who whacked the Chicago White Sox 5-4 in 10 innings. Cleveland, meanwhile, moved to within two games of Chicago by defeating Kansas City 7-5.

IN THE NATIONAL, first place Brooklyn pushed the New York Giants into fifth place 6-5 while the second place Chicago Cubs beat the threatening Milwaukee Braves 7-3. Cincinnati replaced the Giants in fourth place by rapping St. Louis 9-1. And Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 7-5 in 10 innings after the Phils nailed the wrap up of a suspended April 24 game, 3-0.

Brooklyn got back into the swing of things in cracker-box Ebbets Field, belting home runs No. 98, 99 and 100 for the season after hitting just one homer in the last five games on the road. Duke Snider whacked the 100th, good for the deciding run in the eighth and giving him the major league lead with 24.

Sal Maglie, who had won eight straight, was the loser while Karl Spooner won his second with relief help from Ed Roebuck.

Trabert-Patty In Semi-Final

Wimbledon, England, June 29 (AP)—Tony Trabert meets Budge Patty in the highlight All-American match of today's Wimbledon singles semi-final with veteran Gardnar Mulloy warning:

"That match could take the edge off Trabert's game."

Ken Rosewall, Australia's 20-year-old star, tackles Kurt Nielsen, unseeded Dane who was Wimbledon runner-up in 1953, in the other semi-final.

TRABERT and Rosewall now are joint betting favorites.

"I think Trabert will defeat Patty," said Mulloy who is here for his ninth Wimbledon tournament. "But it probably will be a tough match and a hard one could tire Trabert for the final."

"I fancy Rosewall to win the title," the 40-year-old Miami Beach, Fla., attorney added. "He is sharp and as quick as a cat. He should not have much trouble defeating Nielsen. Patty may give Trabert a lot of trouble. Patty will press Trabert and may tire him for the final."

Trabert is having a much tougher passage to the final than Rosewall. The 24-year-old American Davis Cup star ousted defending champion Jaroslav Drobny, Egypt, sixth-seeded, last Monday and now faces seventh-seeded Patty—the man who upset fourth-seeded Lew Hoad, Australia, in the quarter finals.

Carter 4-1 Favorite Over Smith

Boston, June 29 (AP)—Jimmy Carter pits his varied styles against hard-hitting Wallace (Bud) Smith tonight in defense of his world lightweight boxing championship at Boston Garden.

The scheduled 15-rounder is the 11th title fight for Carter—the only man in history to hold the same crown three times.

CARTER IS A 4 to 1 favorite.

The bout will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (ABC) with New England blacked out on the video. It's slated to start at 10 p. m. EDT.

Ringside observers, conceding Smith is a sound fighter, generally agree he'll be after an early knockout if possible. He's got a particularly sharp left hook. But Smith, getting a title shot at Carter after losing a 10 round decision to the lightweight king in his hometown of Cincinnati five years ago, knows how strong the durable Carter can be in the late rounds.

CARTER CARRIES a knockout punch himself. He's kayoed 28 opponents while running up 70 victories, 18 defeats and nine draws. Smith's record is 31-11-5 including 18 knockouts.

However, the major factor in in a championship fight is the ability to go the route and in his 11 title bouts Carter has fought 15 rounds six times. Smith never has traveled 15 rounds though he has fought 12 rounds three times.

Trabert-Patty In Semi-Final

"That match could take the edge off Trabert's game."

"I fancy Rosewall to win the title," the 40-year-old Miami Beach, Fla., attorney added. "He is sharp and as quick as a cat. He should not have much trouble defeating Nielsen. Patty may give Trabert a lot of trouble. Patty will press Trabert and may tire him for the final."

Trabert is having a much tougher passage to the final than Rosewall. The 24-year-old American Davis Cup star ousted defending champion Jaroslav Drobny, Egypt, sixth-seeded, last Monday and now faces seventh-seeded Patty—the man who upset fourth-seeded Lew Hoad, Australia, in the quarter finals.

PROBLEM SOLVED—Folks all over the country are buying baby burros for pets—and having trouble receiving them. The little fellows have a great habit of eating their shipping tags en route. Dr F F. Hinkley Tosses 2-Hits as Jones Dairy Wins, 4-2.

Bruce Hinkley stopped Doblers with two hits last night in the City Baseball League as Jones Dairy scored a 4-2 victory.

The Dairymen picked up two runs in the first frame when Mike Carlino led off with a walk, and Nippy Jones singled him to third, Tom Carlino drove in the first run with a single. Shelightner loaded the bases in the same frame with a shot to center field. Jackson was safe on a fielder's choice and Jones scored the second tally.

Two errors and a single placed Doblers in scoring position in the second. Joe Shattan scored on Joe Hoffman's sacrifice fly to right field, and Armstrong came home on a wild throw.

Misasi's double led off Jones half of the third inning, and he went to third on an outfielding error and scored when he was hit in the back on a rundown between third and home.

Hinkley was safe on an error in the fourth, and a sacrifice and single sent him home.

Laidlaw's Record Shows Growth of School System Under His Leadership

At a special meeting of the Kingston Board of Education held Tuesday afternoon, Arthur J. Laidlaw, who will retire as superintendent of schools, submitted the following report of his stewardship as superintendent of schools in the City of Kingston for the period July 1, 1939 to June 30, 1955:

On June 30th I will have completed 44 years of service in the field of education; three years as a teacher in a university, three years as a high school teacher, and 38 years as a school superintendent. My term of service as a public school superintendent has rarely been exceeded by any school executive. In these 44 years it has been my privilege to have taught classes from the first grade up to and including the senior year in college — a span of 16 years. This experience has fortunately given one a broad understanding of the whole educational system, and it has been most helpful.

I came to Kingston in July, 1939 after completing a service of 16 years as the superintendent of schools in the City of Ogdensburg, a city having a population of 16,000. Prior to my service in the City of Ogdensburg, I was superintendent of schools in the Village of Whitehall, New York. In all these years it was my good fortune to have done just about everything that might be found in a school system; this, too, was an excellent experience. It was therefore not difficult to transfer from the City of Ogdensburg to the City of Kingston.

IN COMING TO KINGSTON, I found a school system that was sound in its basic educational philosophy but very traditional in its approach. I found a school system which was sadly in need of new equipment, new books, instructional supplies, etc.; in fact, the teachers had very little with which to work. I remember visiting a classroom where the teacher was using a map of the world. I looked at the map and found that it had an 1890 copyright. I found textbooks which were copyrighted in the early 1900's; school buildings which were most inadequately lighted; school rooms which did not have a single item of modern educational equipment; buildings in which the only instructional equipment had been purchased and presented to the school by the P. T. A.; not a single hard surfaced play area around any school. There was practically nothing in the way of music equipment, except for a few old pianos; nothing was provided for visual education, and very little for the study of art. There was a small school band but the schools did not own a single instrument. There was a high school chorus, but no a-cappella choir. There was a small orchestra.

There was no organization for the care and maintenance of the school buildings. The Board of Education did employ two men who attempted to make all emergency repairs but they were unable to do any more than just the badly needed work. I do want to pay tribute to Frank Elmendorf, who was the man responsible for the repair work. He did a herculean job, in spite of the fact that he had only one man to assist him.

I remember so well the first day, late in August 1939, when Mr. Elmendorf took me around to all the schools. When I finished the tour I was a most discouraged man. The elementary schools were dark, dingy, very poorly lighted and most unattractive. The walls, for the most part, were painted with a dark brown paint. The window shades were torn and/or full of holes. The students' desks were old and badly in need of repair and/or replacement. The only bright spot was the newly built M.J.M. School and the small addition which was being built on the manual training building.

AT ONCE IT BECAME evident that there was much to be done in order to bring the schools in Kingston up to an acceptable standard. New school buildings were needed; new instructional equipment was a necessity; a plan for better custodial services should be devised; many needed repairs to the school buildings and play areas must be done and done without delay. All school buildings needed a paint job, both inside and outside. For the protection of the children, all play areas were in need of high fence enclosures. I am happy to report that practically all these have been accomplished. In addition, all classrooms in every elementary school have had the old stationary desks removed and new movable desks, chairs and tables have been installed. In 1940 a survey of the lighting was made in all the schools and, as a result, new fixtures were installed in every classroom and in all corridors. Teachers have been provided with new desks and chairs, filing cabinets, storage cases, etc., where needed. In the high school about half the classrooms have been equipped with movable furniture. Schools have been provided with new, modern and up-to-date teaching equipment and materials, so that now every classroom has all needed teaching aids.

In 1942, the Board of Education requested the superintendent to make a comprehensive study of school building needs and to submit a report to the board. This was done and a building program was presented. This report suggested a plan for a long-range program which affected all schools, including all elementary schools, the MJM School and the high school. Again in 1949, a re-study of the 1942 survey was requested by the Board of Education—the conclusions reached were substantially the same as the 1942 study. As a result of these studies a school building program was started in 1949 where contracts were let for the large addition to the vocational building. This addition included not only new shops for the vocational program, but it also included a new chemistry laboratory, a complete new homemaking department, a band room, an orchestra room and new classrooms. This building was completed and opened on September 1, 1950 at a cost of approximately $425,000. The building contracts were approximately $46,000. Specifications for this equipment and the purchase of the same was all done by the superintendent of schools, at a financial saving to the Board of Education.

IN APRIL 1950 contracts were let for the construction of the George Washington Elementary School. This building was completed and opened in February, 1952. The total cost of this building was $1,449,657.60. The equipment for this school amounted to $109,536; the specifications for all the equipment were written by the superintendent and the installation was all made by the Board of Education employes under the supervision of Mr. McLean—again at a considerable financial saving to the Board of Education.

In 1952, the Board of Education started construction of the Kate Walton Field House and the remodeling of the basement of the Kingston High School. The total cost of these two projects was $772,987.09; i.e., the total cost of the field house was $555,654.97, and the high school reconstruction $217,242.12. Again the specifications for all the equipment for these two projects were written by the superintendent of schools and the installation was done under Mr. McLean's supervision. It is estimated that the specifications written by your superintendent of schools have saved the Board of Education in excess of $25,000. The total cost of the building construction started in 1949 amounts to approximately $2,628,000. Against this construction cost the total outstanding bonded debt is $930,000, which will be completely paid by the year 1961.

In addition to the new construction, considerable work has been done on the present school buildings. School No. 5 has been completely remodeled following the fire in 1951. School No. 8 has also been completely reconditioned and is ready for the reopening of school on September 6, 1955. Specifications for the new work and the new equipment were written by the superintendent of schools. Accoustical ceilings have been installed in the corridors of the MJM and high school buildings. New heating systems have been installed in Schools No. 2, No. 6, and the MJM School. All school buildings are now in excellent physical condition—again thanks to Mr. McLean's competent supervision.

THE PROVISION of the school's physical plant is but one phase of the education system's program. A school system can have the best school buildings that money can build, but it is what goes on in the classrooms that truly measures the achievement of the school. In the past 16 years many changes have taken place, and in the future many more changes will be made. A school system cannot remain static. Sixteen years ago there was not a single kindergarten in the Kingston Public School System. In September 1942 the first public school kindergarten was organized in School No. 6. Since 1942 kindergartens have been organized in every elementary school, and at present there are 11 full-time kindergarten teachers and 22 kindergarten divisions with an enrollment of 500 children. Kindergarten training is now a requirement for admission into the first grade.

School libraries have been organized in every school in the city. A librarian's service is now available to the teachers and children in every elementary school. This service should be most valuable not only to the reading program but also in the study of geography, history, science, etc. Our high school and the MJM libraries are very well supplied with books, magazines, reference materials etc. The elementary school libraries are being used now more than at any previous time.

There was a need for better coordination of the work being done in the elementary schools. In 1941 an elementary supervisor was added to the staff. This position has had its ups and downs, but I believe now the supervisor is working on safe ground and her services are very effective.

EVERY SCHOOL in the city now has an excellent school lunch program. In this department, which was organized in 1945, there are now 23 employes. The cost of operating the school lunch program amounts to approximately $100,000 per year; the income from the sale of lunches nearly meets the cost of operation. Any deficit is subsidized by the Board of Education.

Many of our departments have been strengthened. Sixteen years ago there were three teachers in the music department—now we have a total of seven who are providing an excellent program of both vocal and instrumental instruction. Sixteen years ago all chorus groups and/or instrumental instruction had to be done after regular school hours; now it is a part of the regular day's program. Sixteen years ago there were six teachers in the physical education department—today there are 10. Our guidance department has been completely reorganized with a staff of four full-time counselors and a full-time secretary. When I came to Kingston in 1939, not a single child in the school system had been given an intelligence (I.Q.) test or a standardized test. Now our testing program is very extensive and we have intelligence and achievement scores for every child in our schools. The number of students who complete high school has increased, and the number of students who attend higher institutions of learning has about doubled.

OUR VOCATIONAL Department has been greatly expanded, to the point that now we are rated as having the best and most complete vocational school between Albany and New York city. Students who complete vocational courses are quickly selected for positions in local industry.

We had no visual education department a few years ago. Today we have a well-equipped department with equipment valued at several thousand dollars. The schools now have this equipment:

Sound motion picture projectors: 16 yrs. ago 1; today 16.

Tape recorders: 16 yrs. ago 0; today 10.

Filmstrip projectors: 16 yrs. ago 0; today 20.

Record players: 16 yrs. ago several in poor condition; today 37.

Public address systems: 16 yrs. ago 0; today 3.

Opaque projectors: 16 yrs. ago 1; today 12.

Filmstrips owned: 16 yrs. ago 0; today 1000.

Bulletin boards: 16 yrs. ago 0; today, in all classrooms.

All the schools are now equipped with mimeograph or ditto duplicators. The commercial department has the latest modern equipment including calculators, adding machines, computators, transcribers, dictaphones, etc. The Board of Education owns 138 typewriters.

Sixteen years ago the M.J.M. School had in it a very odd organization—it housed all the 8th grade and part of the 9th grade. The result was that the city schools had a 7-1½-3½ plan of organization. The M.J.M. School now had in it all the 7th and 8th grades, organized on a junior high school basis. It has been necessary to make several changes in order to complete this change, all of which have been completed. A few years ago, our elementary school changed over from a semi-annual to an annual promotion basis; a big task which was accomplished in one year.

MANY NEW COURSES have been added to the high school curriculum, including Spanish, radio, college English, health, several courses in the commercial department, several courses in the vocational department, courses in vocal and instrumental music, a broadened homemaking program. Many classes are organized on a school level and/or regents level basis; thus better meeting the needs and abilities of students. The high school now offers its students a very broad and comprehensive curriculum of 16 courses of study, each leading to a high school diploma.

School costs in the past 16 years have increased tremendously. When I came to Kingston in 1939 the teachers' salary schedule for elementary school teachers was $1100 minimum to $1700 maximum, and for high school teachers $1400 minimum to $2200 maximum. The maximum for elementary principals was $2800 and the maximum for high school principal was $3500. In the past 16 years there have been several revisions of the teachers' salary schedules. The present maximum for teachers with four years of preparation beyond high school is $5300 and with five years preparation $5,500, with possible extra increments of from $100-$400 for additional study. Elementary principals and directors now can qualify for a salary of $6400-$6600; high school principal can qualify for a maximum salary of $8500. On the whole teachers' salaries have been increased from 2½ to over three times above the schedules in effect when I came to Kingston. The number of members on the staff has increased from 170 to 240. Salary schedules for civil service employes have more than doubled in this 16 year period. For the school year 1939-1940 the annual board of education budget totalled $592,150; 16 years later the budget totals $2,244,377, an increase of $1,652,227 or 279 per cent.

The board of education office files have been thoroughly revised. In 1939 there were practically no office records, other than the records of voucher payments. Two small two-letter files contained all the records. There was no school census. Today there are over 75 drawers, in steel file units, which contain all kinds of records, including a complete school census for all school children. Much has been done to set up a workable filing system.

I CANNOT REFRAIN from mentioning the work of the maintenance men under Mr. McLean's supervision. "Dick" McLean's services cannot be duplicated; he has saved the board of education thousands upon thousands of dollars, and never at any personal gain to himself. It is because of his careful supervision that the school buildings are in their present splendid condition.

And now I wish to offer my valedictory. I want to thank the members of the teaching staff with whom I have had the privilege to work for their cooperation. I want to thank the members of the clerical staff in the board of education's office who have worked so faithfully with and for me. I want to express my appreciation and gratefulness to present and past members of the board of education for their cooperation and support. I ask that my successor be given all possible cooperation in order that the boys and girls in our schools may be given the best education possible within the limits of the citizens of our city to provide. To quote, "Mr. Valiant" in Bunyon's Pilgrim's Progress—

"My sword I give to him who shall succeed me in my pilgrimage and any courage and skill to him that can get it. My Marks and Scars I carry with me to be a witness for me that I have fought the battles of one who will be my rewarder."

At a special meeting of the Kingston Board of Education held Tuesday afternoon, Arthur J. Laidlaw, who will retire as superintendent of schools, submitted the following report of his stewardship as superintendent of schools in the City of Kingston for the period July 1, 1939 to June 30, 1955:

On June 30th I will have completed 44 years of service in the field of education; three years as a teacher in a university, three years as a high school teacher, and 38 years as a school superintendent. My term of service as a public school superintendent has rarely been exceeded by any school executive. In these 44 years it has been my privilege to have taught classes from the first grade up to and including the senior year in college — a span of 16 years. This experience has fortunately given one a broad understanding of the whole educational system, and it has been most helpful.

I came to Kingston in July, 1939 after completing a service of 16 years as the superintendent of schools in the City of Ogdensburg, a city having a population of 16,000. Prior to my service in the City of Ogdensburg, I was superintendent of schools in the Village of Whitehall, New York. In all these years it was my good fortune to have done just about everything that might be found in a school system; this, too, was an excellent experience. It was therefore not difficult to transfer from the City of Ogdensburg to the City of Kingston.

IN COMING TO KINGSTON, I found a school system that was sound in its basic educational philosophy but very traditional in its approach. I found a school system which was sadly in need of new equipment, new books, instructional supplies, etc.; in fact, the teachers had very little with which to work. I remember visiting a classroom where the teacher was using a map of the world. I looked at the map and found that it had an 1890 copyright. I found textbooks which were copyrighted in the early 1900's; school buildings which were most inadequately lighted; school rooms which did not have a single item of modern educational equipment; buildings in which the only instructional equipment had been purchased and presented to the school by the P. T. A.; not a single hard surfaced play area around any school. There was practically nothing in the way of music equipment, except for a few old pianos; nothing was provided for visual education, and very little for the study of art. There was a small school band but the schools did not own a single instrument. There was a high school chorus, but no a-cappella choir. There was a small orchestra.

There was no organization for the care and maintenance of the school buildings. The Board of Education did employ two men who attempted to make all emergency repairs but they were unable to do any more than just the badly needed work. I do want to pay tribute to Frank Elmendorf, who was the man responsible for the repair work. He did a herculean job, in spite of the fact that he had only one man to assist him.

I remember so well the first day, late in August 1939, when Mr. Elmendorf took me around to all the schools. When I finished the tour I was a most discouraged man. The elementary schools were dark, dingy, very poorly lighted and most unattractive. The walls, for the most part, were painted with a dark brown paint. The window shades were torn and/or full of holes. The students' desks were old and badly in need of repair and/or replacement. The only bright spot was the newly built M.J.M. School and the small addition which was being built on the manual training building.

AT ONCE IT BECAME evident that there was much to be done in order to bring the schools in Kingston up to an acceptable standard. New school buildings were needed; new instructional equipment was a necessity; a plan for better custodial services should be devised; many needed repairs to the school buildings and play areas must be done and done without delay. All school buildings needed a paint job, both inside and outside. For the protection of the children, all play areas were in need of high fence enclosures. I am happy to report that practically all these have been accomplished. In addition, all classrooms in every elementary school have had the old stationary desks removed and new movable desks, chairs and tables have been installed. In 1940 a survey of the lighting was made in all the schools and, as a result, new fixtures were installed in every classroom and in all corridors. Teachers have been provided with new desks and chairs, filing cabinets, storage cases, etc., where needed. In the high school about half the classrooms have been equipped with movable furniture. Schools have been provided with new, modern and up-to-date teaching equipment and materials, so that now every classroom has all needed teaching aids.

In 1942, the Board of Education requested the superintendent to make a comprehensive study of school building needs and to submit a report to the board. This was done and a building program was presented. This report suggested a plan for a long-range program which affected all schools, including all elementary schools, the MJM School and the high school. Again in 1949, a re-study of the 1942 survey was requested by the Board of Education—the conclusions reached were substantially the same as the 1942 study. As a result of these studies a school building program was started in 1949 where contracts were let for the large addition to the vocational building. This addition included not only new shops for the vocational program, but it also included a new chemistry laboratory, a complete new homemaking department, a band room, an orchestra room and new classrooms. This building was completed and opened on September 1, 1950 at a cost of approximately $425,000. The building contracts were approximately $46,000. Specifications for this equipment and the purchase of the same was all done by the superintendent of schools, at a financial saving to the Board of Education.

IN APRIL 1950 contracts were let for the construction of the George Washington Elementary School. This building was completed and opened in February, 1952. The total cost of this building was $1,449,657.60. The equipment for this school amounted to $109,536; the specifications for all the equipment were written by the superintendent and the installation was all made by the Board of Education employes under the supervision of Mr. McLean—again at a considerable financial saving to the Board of Education.

In 1952, the Board of Education started construction of the Kate Walton Field House and the remodeling of the basement of the Kingston High School. The total cost of these two projects was $772,987.09; i.e., the total cost of the field house was $555,654.97, and the high school reconstruction $217,242.12. Again the specifications for all the equipment for these two projects were written by the superintendent of schools and the installation was done under Mr. McLean's supervision. It is estimated that the specifications written by your superintendent of schools have saved the Board of Education in excess of $25,000. The total cost of the building construction started in 1949 amounts to approximately $2,628,000. Against this construction cost the total outstanding bonded debt is $930,000, which will be completely paid by the year 1961.

In addition to the new construction, considerable work has been done on the present school buildings. School No. 5 has been completely remodeled following the fire in 1951. School No. 8 has also been completely reconditioned and is ready for the reopening of school on September 6, 1955. Specifications for the new work and the new eqiupment were written by the superintendent of schools. Accoustical ceilings have been installed in the corridors of the MJM and high school buildings. New heating systems have been installed in Schools No. 2, No. 6, and the MJM School. All school buildings are now in excellent physical condition—again thanks to Mr. McLean's competent supervision.

THE PROVISION of the school's physical plant is but one phase of the education system's program. A school system can have the best school buildings that money can build, but it is what goes on in the classrooms that truly measures the achievement of the school. In the past 16 years many changes have taken place, and in the future many more changes will be made. A school system cannot remain static. Sixteen years ago there was not a single kindergarten in the Kingston Public School System. In September 1942 the first public school kindergarten was organized in School No. 6. Since 1942 kindergartens have been organized in every elementary school, and at present there are 11 full-time kindergarten teachers and 22 kindergarten divisions with an enrollment of 500 children. Kindergarten training is now a requirement for admission into the first grade.

School libraries have been organized in every school in the city. A librarian's service is now available to the teachers and children in every elementary school. This service should be most valuable not only to the reading program but also in the study of geography, history, science, etc. Our high school and the MJM libraries are very well supplied with books, magazines, reference materials etc. The elementary school libraries are being used now more than at any previous time.

There was a need for better coordination of the work being done in the elementary schools. In 1941 an elementary supervisor was added to the staff. This position has had its ups and downs, but I believe now the supervisor is working on safe ground and her services are very effective.

EVERY SCHOOL in the city now has an excellent school lunch program. In this department, which was organized in 1945, there are now 23 employes. The cost of operating the school lunch program amounts to approximately $100,000 per year; the income from the sale of lunches nearly meets the cost of operation. Any deficit is subsidized by the Board of Education.

Many of our departments have been strengthened. Sixteen years ago there were three teachers in the music department—now we have a total of seven who are providing an excellent program of both vocal and instrumental instruction. Sixteen years ago all chorus groups and/or instrumental instruction had to be done after regular school hours; now it is a part of the regular day's program. Sixteen years ago there were six teachers in the physical education department—today there are 10. Our guidance department has been completely reorganized with a staff of four full-time counselors and a full-time secretary. OUR VOCATIONAL Department has been greatly expanded, to the point that now we are rated as having the best and most complete vocational school between Albany and New York city. Students who complete vocational courses are quickly selected for positions in local industry.

The commission then sought the right to appeal to the Court of Appeals. That petition is still pending.

ALSO PRESENT at Tuesday's luncheon meeting were Paul Patchin, past international director; John W. Powell, newly-elected district governor, and Roy Black, Mississippi's nominee for third vice president in Lions International.

Governor Powell complimented the Kingston club for having sponsored new Lions clubs at Hurley, New Paltz and Esopus this year. He presented the Merit Award to William R. Stall and Extension Awards to Ernest DuBois, John Short, Chester Barth, Warren Smith and Donald Briggs for their work in organizing the new clubs.

The commission then sought the right to appeal to the Court of Appeals. That petition is still pending.

State Has 263 Air Landing Facilities

Albany, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—New York state currently offers 263 air landing facilities, including 37 seaplane bases and 12 heliports, the Commerce Department reports.

The department's 1955 airport map and directory, made public yesterday, shows, besides the seaplane and helicopter facilities, 159 private and commercial airports, 46 municipal landing fields and nine military strips.

The total of landing facilities is 14 less than that recorded for 1954. Last year's map listed 12 more commercial and private airports and one more each in the military, municipal and seaplane categories. There were 11 heliports listed last year.

Commerce Commissioner Edward T. Dickinson said the state had lost 54 landing facilities since 1951. He said the drop might be attributed to discontinuance of federal subsidies for flight-training programs.
